

1. Hello, this is 6 Minute English from BBC Learning English.
Hello, this is "6 Minute English" from BBC Learning English.

2. I'm Neil.
我叫尼尔。

3. And I'm Bekah.
而我叫贝卡。

4. In this episode we're discussing a food seasoning that's so popular we eat around three quarters of a million tonnes of it a year.
在这一集中，我们将讨论一种非常受欢迎的调味品——每年我们消耗的数量大约有75万吨。

5. We're talking about pepper.
我们谈论的是胡椒。

6. Do you add pepper to your food, Bekah?
贝卡，你在食物里加胡椒粉吗？

7. I do, Neil.
我愿意，尼尔。

8. Yes, I think it's an easy way to add some spice.
是的，我觉得这是一种为生活增添趣味的好方法。

9. Yeah, I love a bit of pepper.
是的，我喜欢稍微加点辣味。

10. I grind pepper onto everything.
我会在所有食物上撒胡椒粉。

11. Well, not everything.
嗯，并不是所有事情都是这样。

12. But I do like it.
但我确实很喜欢它。

13. Given its popularity, it's surprising that most people know very little about pepper.
鉴于它的普及程度，令人惊讶的是，大多数人对胡椒知之甚少。

14. Did you know, for example, that peppers are the fruit of vines, often growing over 10 metres high?
你知道吗？例如，辣椒其实是藤本植物的果实，这种植物通常能长到10米以上的高度。

15. Our ancestors would be surprised how little we know.
我们的祖先要是知道我们懂得的东西如此之少，一定会感到惊讶的。

16. From ancient Greece onwards, Peppa was prized as the black gold of ingredients and explorers crossed oceans in search of it, discovering new continents along the way.

从古希腊时期开始，胡椒就被视为极其珍贵的食材，探险家们为了寻找它而跨越海洋，在这个过程中发现了新的大陆。

17. In this episode, we'll get reacquainted with Peppa and learn some useful new words and phrases too.

在这一集中，我们将重新认识佩奇，同时还会学习一些有用的新单词和短语。

18. And remember, you'll find a transcript for you to read along with us as you listen on our website, bbclearningenglish.com.

请记住，您可以在我们的网站bbclearningenglish.com上找到配套的文字稿，边听边阅读。

19. OK, first I have a question for you, of course, Becca.

好的，首先我有个问题要问你，当然，是问贝卡。

20. Although it's black pepper you're most likely to see in shops and restaurants in the UK, there are hundreds of different varieties worldwide.

虽然这种黑胡椒是你在英国的商店和餐馆里最常看到的品种，但实际上全世界存在数百种不同的黑胡椒品种。

21. But what is unusual about Phu Quoc, a white pepper from Vietnam?

但越南产的白胡椒——富国胡椒，究竟有什么不寻常之处呢？

22. Does it a make people cry, b taste like Parmesan cheese, or c cost more than gold?

它是会让人流泪，还是尝起来像帕尔玛干酪，又或者是价格贵得比黄金还高呢？

23. Hmm, well I don't think it would be as expensive as gold and I kind of want it to taste like parmesan cheese.

嗯，我觉得它的价格应该不会像黄金那么高，而且我希望能让它带有帕尔玛干酪的味道。

24. OK, well we'll find out later in the programme.

好的，我们会在节目后续环节中了解到答案。

25. Mathilde Rollinger is the daughter of Olivier Rollinger, an award-winning French chef famous for his use of spices.

玛蒂尔德·罗林格是奥利维耶·罗林格的女儿，她的父亲是一位屡获殊荣的法国厨师，以其精湛的香料运用技巧而闻名。

26. While other little girls of her age were sprinkling sugar on their breakfast yoghurt, Mathilde was the only girl in Paris sprinkling pepper.

当同龄的其他小女孩都在在早餐酸奶上撒糖时，玛蒂尔德却是巴黎唯一——一个在酸奶上撒胡椒粉的女孩。

27. Today, Mathilde runs the Epis Rollinger spice shop in the Opera area of the city.
如今，玛蒂尔德在城市的歌剧院区经营着埃皮斯·罗林格香料店。

28. Here, customers can find a huge range of peppers from fruity red Cambodian Kampot pepper to Borneo's Sarawak black pepper with its woody aroma.
在这里，顾客可以找到种类繁多的辣椒，从果香浓郁的柬埔寨金边红辣椒，到带有木质香气的婆罗洲沙捞越黑辣椒，应有尽有。

29. These peppers have strong, distinctive tastes.
这些辣椒具有浓郁且独特的风味。

30. But curiously, they enhance, rather than overpower, the flavour of the food you're eating, as Mathilde explained to BBC World Service programme, The Food Chain.

但有趣的是，正如玛蒂尔德在BBC世界服务台的节目《食物链》中所解释的，它们会增强而不是掩盖你所吃食物的原有风味。

31. It will give a kick and transform it, but you will still have the savour of the different ingredients.

它会带来一股冲击力，使事物发生改变，但你依然能够品尝到各种食材带来的独特风味。

32. It will not disguise the other ingredients, but it will push them.

它不会掩盖其他成分的存在，反而会使其更加凸显出来。

33. It's a flavour catalyst.

它是一种能激发风味的物质。

34. We can say in punctuation, like it's an exclamation.

我们可以把这种标点符号用法看作是一种感叹号。

35. It's like an exclamation mark.

它就像一个感叹号。

36. Exactly.

正是如此。

37. Mathilde says pepper gives food a kick.

玛蒂尔德说，胡椒能给食物增添风味。

38. To give something a kick means to provide it with extra stimulation or excitement.

给某事物增添一些刺激或趣味，意味着为它提供额外的动力或兴奋元素。

39. Pepper also makes flavours more intense.

胡椒还能让味道更加浓郁。

40. Mathilde calls it a catalyst, something that causes another action to start or makes it happen more quickly.

玛蒂尔德将其称为一种催化剂，即那种能够引发另一项行动的发生或促使其更快地得以实现

的因素。

41. In fact, she says pepper is like an exclamation mark.

事实上，她说胡椒粉就像一个感叹号。

42. Saying something is like an exclamation mark means it shows strong emotion or excitement, the same thing an exclamation mark does in written punctuation.

说某句话时加上感叹号，就意味着这句话表达了强烈的情感或兴奋之情，这与感叹号在书面标点中的作用是一样的。

43. Mathilde's spice shop holds pepper tasting sessions where she explains to customers the origin of her peppers and how they grow, changing colour as they harden in the sun.

玛蒂尔德的香料店会举办胡椒品鉴活动，在活动中她会向顾客讲解这些胡椒的产地以及它们的生长过程——当它们在阳光下变干时，颜色也会发生变化。

44. Reporter John Lawrenson attended one of these tasting sessions for BBC World Service programme The Food Chain.

记者约翰·劳伦森参加了为BBC世界服务节目《食物链》举办的其中一场品鉴活动。

45. The different colours of pepper though, as Mathilde started to say, do not correspond to the different varieties but to the maturity of the peppercorns and what people do to them.

然而，正如玛蒂尔德所提到的，胡椒的不同颜色并非对应于不同的品种，而是与胡椒粒的成熟程度以及人们对其进行的加工处理方式有关。

46. They're green when they're young, black when they're mature and dried, red when they're very mature.

它们在幼年时期是绿色的，成熟干燥后变成黑色，而当它们完全成熟时则会变成红色。

47. Grey pepper is an industrial creation, not a botanical one.

灰胡椒是一种人工制造的产品，并非天然植物。

48. Ground to a fine powder, it is, says Mathilde, grey dust.

被碾成细粉后，它就变成了灰色的尘埃，玛蒂尔德这样说道。

49. She's not very keen on that one.

她对那个并不是很感兴趣。

50. The colour of pepper is not determined by the variety, but by its maturity.

胡椒的颜色并非由品种决定，而是由其成熟度决定的。

51. A food's maturity describes the stage when a food is fully grown and ready to harvest.

食物的成熟度指的是食物已经完全成长、可以收获的阶段。

52. For peppers, this is when they wrinkle and go black.

对于辣椒来说，就是在这个时候，它们会起皱并变黑。

53. Often a pepper mill is used to grind pepper, to crush it into powder by pressing it between two hard surfaces.

通常人们会使用胡椒研磨器来将胡椒研磨成粉末，通过将胡椒压在两个坚硬的表面之间来将其粉碎。

54. This happens with grey pepper, an artificially produced pepper mix which Mathilde is not keen on, meaning she doesn't like it.

这种情况也发生在灰胡椒上。灰胡椒是一种人工调配的胡椒混合物，而玛蒂尔德并不喜欢这种味道，也就是说，她并不喜爱它。

55. We've learned so much about pepper, I'll look at it differently the next time I sprinkle some of my food.

我们关于胡椒了解了很多，下次我在食物上撒胡椒时，一定会用不同的视角来看待它。

56. OK Neil, I think it's time to reveal the answer to your question.

好的，尼尔，我觉得现在是时候揭晓你这个问题的答案了。

57. Yes, I asked you what's unusual about Phu Quoc, a white pepper from Vietnam.

是的，我问过你，越南产的白胡椒——富国胡椒，它有什么特别之处呢？

58. I answered B because I want it to taste like Parmesan cheese.

我选择了B选项，因为我希望它的味道能像帕尔玛干酪一样。

59. Well, you're lucky because it is in fact B.

嗯，你运气真好，因为答案确实是B。

60. It tastes like Parmesan cheese.

它尝起来像帕尔玛干酪。

61. Well done!

干得好！

62. OK, let's recap the vocabulary we've learned, starting with the phrase give something a kick, meaning to add extra thrill or excitement.

好的，让我们回顾一下我们学过的词汇。首先来看这个短语“give something a kick”，它的含义是为某件事增添额外的刺激或趣味性。

63. A catalyst causes something to start or speeds it up.

催化剂能够促使某件事情开始发生或加快其进展速度。

64. If you say something is like an exclamation mark, you mean it signifies strong emotion, surprise or excitement, just like an exclamation mark does in writing.

如果你说某事物就像感叹号一样，那你的意思是它表达了强烈的情感、惊讶或兴奋，就如同书面语言中的感叹号所起的作用一样。

65. A food's maturity refers to the stage when it's fully grown and ready for harvest.

食物的成熟期指的是其已经完全生长完毕、可以收获的阶段。

66. To grind food means to crush it into powder by being pressed between two hard surfaces.

将食物磨碎意味着通过将其压在两个坚硬的表面之间将其碾成粉末。

67. And finally, if you're keen on something, you like it and enjoy doing it.

最后，如果你对某件事情充满热情，你喜欢它，并且乐于去做这件事。

68. Once again, our six minutes are up.

再一次，我们的六分钟时间已经用完了。

69. But remember, you can find worksheets, quizzes and loads more resources to improve your English on our website, bbclearningenglish.com.

但请记住，你可以在我们的网站bbclearningenglish.com上找到各种练习题、小测验以及许多其他有助于提高英语水平的资源。

70. See you there soon.

期待不久后在那里与你相见。

71. But for now, it's goodbye.

但就目前而言，再见吧。

72. Goodbye.

再见。

闪电英语