

1. Hello, I'm Rob.

Hello, I'm Rob.

2. Welcome to 6 Minute English.

欢迎收听“6分钟英语”。

3. With me in the studio is Neil.

和我一起录音室里的还有尼尔。

4. Hello Neil.

你好，尼尔。

5. Hello Rob.

你好，罗布。

6. And in this programme, we're talking about tourism, but in a very special place – Antarctica.

在这个节目中，我们谈论的是旅游业，但地点非常特别——南极洲。

7. It's considered the last great wilderness on Earth.

它被誉为地球上最后的伟大荒野。

8. Wilderness means an area with no people and no agriculture because of the difficult living conditions.

荒野是指由于生存条件极为恶劣，因而没有人类居住且也没有农业活动的区域。

9. Yes, in Antarctica there are only research stations with scientists and a few tourists.

是的，在南极洲，只有设有科学家的研究站以及少数游客。

10. Well, not so few.

嗯，数量也不算少。

11. About 37,000 tourists are expected there this season.

预计本季将有约37,000名游客前往那里。

12. Many don't go ashore, but there's no denying that it disturbs the environment.

很多人并不会上岸，但不可否认，这种行为确实会破坏环境。

13. That many?

那么多吗？

14. Yes.

是的。

15. We're asking if it's fair for tourists to set foot – that means go to – such a sensitive environment.

我们在质疑，游客进入这样一个敏感的区域，是否公平。

16. We'll also use some vocabulary related to Antarctica.

我们还会使用一些与南极洲相关的词汇。

17. By the way, Neil, do you know a lot about the South Pole?

顺便问一下，尼尔，你对南极了解得很多吗？

18. I've been reading that the ice caps – these are the thick layers of ice, permanently covering a vast area of land in the Arctic and Antarctic – are melting due to global warming.

我读到过，由于全球变暖，那些覆盖在北极和南极广大地区的厚厚冰层正在融化。

19. Yes, and global warming is the increase in world temperatures due to the presence of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere.

是的，全球变暖是指由于大气中二氧化碳含量的增加而导致全球气温上升的现象。

20. This gas and some others have been stopping the heat from the Earth escaping into space.

这种气体以及其他一些物质一直在阻碍地球的热量向太空散发。

21. You know what Rob, I would like to visit Antarctica before it melts too much.

你知道吗，罗布，我在南极洲完全融化之前，真的很想去看看。

22. I want to see the penguins.

我想看看企鹅。

23. They're very amusing animals.

它们是非常有趣的动物。

24. Well they are, yes.

嗯，确实是这样。

25. But penguins aside, what large resource can be found in Antarctica?

不过，撇开企鹅不谈，南极洲还有哪些重要资源呢？

26. That's my question for you today.

这就是我今天想问你的问题。

27. Is Antarctica a the world's largest coal field, b the world's largest gold source, or c the world's largest diamond source?

南极洲是世界上最大的煤矿区，还是世界上最大的金矿来源地，又或者是世界上最大的钻石产地呢？

28. I'm going to have a guess because I don't know that it's coal, eh?

我打算猜猜看，因为我不知道那是不是煤炭，对吧？

29. Coal.

煤炭。

30. Right, OK. Well, as usual, we'll give you the answer at the end of the programme.

好的，没问题。像往常一样，我们会在节目结束时告诉你们答案。

31. Well, I love travelling but I wonder how that very sensitive environment in Antarctica is going to be preserved.

嗯，我很喜欢旅行，但我在想，南极洲那种极其脆弱的环境将如何得到保护。

32. That's why BBC reporter Juliette Rix's visit to Antarctica caught my attention. 这就是为什么BBC记者朱丽叶·里克斯对南极洲的访问引起了我的注意。

33. I bet she's asking the same question as you, Rob.

我打赌她也在问和你一样的问题，罗布。

34. Yes, she is.

是的，她就是。

35. Listen to what she has to say about the need to have some level of tourism in the Antarctic.

听听她对于在南极开展一定程度的旅游活动这一观点有何看法。

36. What word does she use to describe people who defend a cause, in this case, the preservation of the region?

她用哪个词来形容那些为某种事业而奋斗的人呢？在这个例子中，指的是那些为保护这一地区而努力的人。

37. I'm all too aware that this is not my habitat.

我非常清楚，这里并不是我的生存环境。

38. Like a scuba diver under the sea, I'm an alien visitor in the penguins' world.

就像海底的潜水员一样，我就像是企鹅世界中的外来访客。

39. Which makes me wonder, should I be here at all?

这让我开始思考，我究竟有没有必要在这里呢？

40. Am I, just by setting foot on this extraordinary continent, polluting the last great wilderness on Earth?

难道仅仅因为我踏上了这片非同寻常的大陆，就已经污染了地球上最后一片广袤的荒野吗？

41. All visitors leave a footprint, admits my tour leader, and we all tend to go to the same places, the accessible coastline, which is also where the penguins and seals go to breed.

“所有游客都会留下痕迹，”我的导游说道，“而且我们大家往往都会选择去同样的地方——那些容易到达的海岸线，因为那里也是企鹅和海豹的繁殖地。”

42. Nonetheless, he argues, carefully controlled, tourism is not just OK, but useful.

然而，他认为，经过严格管控的旅游业不仅是可行的，而且具有积极作用。

43. Without a native population of its own, Antarctica needs advocates, and tourism creates a global constituency of people ready to support, and indeed fund, its preservation.

由于南极洲没有自己的原住民，因此它需要一些支持者。而旅游业使得全球范围内有很多人愿意为保护南极洲出力，甚至提供资金支持。

44. Not everyone is convinced that the benefits outweigh the risks, but most are pragmatic.

并不是所有人都认为这些好处大于风险，但大多数人还是持务实的态度。

45. The reporter uses the word advocates – that's what we call people who defend a cause or an idea.

记者使用了“倡导者”这个词——我们就是用这个词来指那些为某种事业或理念辩护的人。

46. Juliet Ricks' tour guide told her it's good that some people go to Antarctica and then, when they get back to their countries, they defend conservation and give money to organisations which work for the preservation of the environment.

朱丽叶·里克斯的导游告诉她，有些人去南极洲旅行，回来后能够积极倡导环保事业，并为那些致力于保护环境的组织捐款，这确实是一件好事。

47. Some people might not agree, because if there are some companies making profit, it might be difficult to prevent an increase in tourism to Antarctica.

有些人可能不同意这种观点，因为如果有些公司从中获利，那么要阻止前往南极洲的旅游活动增加恐怕会相当困难。

48. And what control do they have over the tourists?

那么，他们对这些游客又有什么控制力呢？

49. Juliet Ricks tells us about the instructions given to her group when they approached Antarctica.

朱丽叶·瑞克斯向我们讲述了她的团队在接近南极洲时所收到的指示。

50. She says that tourists must clean their clothes with a vacuum cleaner before they leave the ship to go on land.

她说，游客在离开游轮上岸之前，必须用吸尘器清理自己的衣物。

51. But why?

但为什么呢？

52. We're given a mandatory briefing before gathering for a vacuum party.

在聚在一起举行“真空派对”之前，我们首先接受了强制性的简报会。

53. We biosecure ourselves, hoovering our clothes and kit and disinfecting our boots to ensure we introduce no alien species to Antarctica.

我们采取了生物安全措施，清理自己的衣物和装备，并对靴子进行消毒，以确保不会将任何外来物种带入南极洲。

54. There's no eating or smoking on land, and we're instructed to take nothing away, except photographs, and leave nothing behind.

在陆地上，严禁进食和吸烟。我们被要求除了拍照之外，不得带走任何物品，也不得留下任何东西。

55. Not even a bit of yellow snow.

一点黄色的雪都没有。

56. So, don't drink too much at breakfast.

所以，早餐时不要喝太多酒。

57. The BBC reporter tells us that the group of tourists has to disinfect their boots.

这位BBC记者告诉我们，这群游客必须对他们的靴子进行消毒处理。

58. Disinfect means to clean something using chemicals, or in this case vacuum, to kill or remove bacteria.

消毒是指使用化学物质，或者在这种情况下使用真空吸尘器，来杀死或清除细菌，从而达到清洁的目的。

59. This is to avoid the risk of contaminating the region.

这是为了避免对该地区造成污染的风险。

60. And to go to the toilet before leaving the ship.

并且要在离开船只之前去上厕所。

61. The ice is not your toilet.

冰面可不是你的厕所。

62. No, it isn't.

不，不是的。

63. The penguins have exclusive rights on that.

企鹅们对那一块区域拥有专属使用权。

64. But what do you think about visiting Antarctica, Rob?

但是，罗布，你认为去南极洲旅行怎么样？

65. Are you keen on paying the penguins a visit?

你有没有兴趣去看看那些企鹅呢？

66. Absolutely.

当然。

67. I would love to go there.

我非常想去那里。

68. How about you, Neil?

你呢，尼尔？

69. Yeah, I'd like to go because as I said, it's all about the penguins.

是的，我想去，因为就像我说的，这一切都是关于企鹅的。

70. Well, let's stop dreaming about exotic trips and go back to the question I asked you earlier in the programme.

好吧，让我们停止幻想那些异国旅行吧，回到我在节目刚开始时问你的那个问题上来。

71. What large resource can be found in Antarctica?

在南极洲能够找到什么丰富的资源呢？

72. Is it the world's largest coal field, the world's largest gold source or the world's largest diamond source?

它是世界上最大的煤田、最大的金矿还是最大的钻石矿区呢？

73. Had I said coal?

我是说煤炭吗？

74. And you are indeed correct, well done.

你确实说得对，做得很好。

75. Now no one is able to mine that coal because the Antarctic Treaty has banned the exploitation of resources for 50 years.

现在没有人能够开采那种煤炭了，因为《南极条约》规定在50年内禁止对南极地区的资源进行开发。

76. What happens after that, who knows?

之后会发生什么，谁又知道呢？

77. Anyway, we're running out of time so let's remember some of the words we said today.

无论如何，我们的时间不多了，所以让我们回顾一下今天说过的那些话吧。

78. Neil?

尼尔？

79. The words were... Wilderness To set foot Ice caps Global warming

这些词语分别是.....荒野、冰盖、全球变暖。

80. advocates to disinfect.

倡导进行消毒。

81. Thank you.

谢谢。

82. Well, that's it for today.

好了，今天的内容就到这里为止了。

83. Go to bbclearningenglish.com to find more 6 Minute English programmes.

访问bbclearningenglish.com，了解更多“6分钟英语”节目。

84. Until next time, goodbye!

下次见，再见！

85. Bye!

再见！

86. Hello and welcome to 6 Minute English.

Hello and welcome to 6 Minute English.

87. I'm Alice.

我叫爱丽丝。

88. And I'm Neil.

我叫尼尔。

89. So Neil, what's the best holiday you've ever had?

那么尼尔，你经历过最愉快的假期是哪一次呢？

90. That would be scuba diving on the Great Barrier Reef off the coast of Australia.

那就是在澳大利亚海岸外的大堡礁进行水肺潜水。

91. It was awesome.

太棒了。

92. I saw sharks, sea turtles, manta rays,

我看到了鲨鱼、海龟和蝠鲼。

93. I certainly don't like the idea of coming nose to nose with a shark.

我绝对不喜欢与鲨鱼近距离接触这种想法。

94. But then diving isn't really my thing.

但事实上，潜水并不是我的强项。

95. I'm more into cultural holidays, you know, visiting the ruins of ancient civilisations.

我更喜欢那些与文化相关的节日活动，比如参观古代文明的遗迹。

96. That's very worthy, Alice.

那非常值得，爱丽丝。

97. But tourists are actually damaging a number of important sites around the world – tramping around, dropping litter, scribbling graffiti everywhere.

但实际上，游客正在破坏世界各地的许多重要景点——他们在这些地方随意走动、乱扔垃圾，还在各处涂写涂鸦。

98. I would never drop litter or scribble graffiti.

我永远不会乱扔垃圾或涂鸦。

99. Well, we're talking about World Heritage sites today, which are places UNESCO considers to be at risk from various threats and in need of protection.

今天我们要讨论的是世界遗产地，这些地方被联合国教科文组织认定为面临各种威胁、亟需得到保护的對象。

100. Heritage means the things a society considers important to its history and culture – for example, art, buildings or natural sites such as the Grand Canyon in the United States.

遗产是指一个社会认为对其历史和文化具有重要意义的物品——例如艺术品、建筑，或是像美国的大峡谷这样的自然景观。

101. And the environment poses a number of different threats.

而且环境也带来了一系列不同的威胁。

102. So Neil, can you tell me which sea creature is a potential threat to the Great Barrier Reef's ecosystem?

那么尼尔，你能告诉我哪种海洋生物可能对大堡礁的生态系统构成威胁吗？

103. Is it a starfish, b jellyfish or c cuttlefish?

它是海星、水母，还是乌贼呢？

104. I will go for b jellyfish.

我会选择b水母。

105. I'm no expert on marine life but I have eaten jellyfish and I haven't eaten the other ones.

我并不是海洋生物方面的专家，但我吃过水母，而其他的那些海洋生物我就没吃过。

106. Oh, I see.

哦，我明白了。

107. Well, we'll find out later on if you're an expert or not.

嗯，我们稍后就会知道你到底是不是专家了。

108. But let's listen now to BBC reporter Roger Harrobin talking about other types of threat to heritage sites.

但现在，让我们听听BBC记者罗杰·哈罗宾讲述关于对遗产地构成的其他类型威胁的内容吧。

109. See how many you can spot.

看看你能找出多少个。

110. The most precious wonders of the natural world.

自然界中最珍贵的奇观。

111. Australia's Great Barrier Reef.

澳大利亚的大堡礁。

112. America's spectacular Grand Canyon.

美国壮观的格兰德峡谷。

113. The Barrier Reef of Belize in South America, second biggest on Earth.
位于南美洲的伯利兹大堡礁，是地球上第二大堡礁。

114. All facing threats from humans.
它们都面临着人类带来的威胁。

115. The Great Barrier Reef is attracting urgent concern.
大堡礁正引发人们的高度关注。

116. There's a huge battle over mining and port development.
在采矿和港口开发问题上，目前正爆发着激烈的争斗。

117. A giant coal mine has just been given the go-ahead by the Queensland government, even though scientists warn it may damage the reef.
昆士兰政府刚刚批准建设一座大型煤矿，尽管科学家们警告称这可能会对珊瑚礁造成破坏。

118. That's the BBC's Roger Harabin.
那是英国广播公司的罗杰·哈拉宾。

119. Well, I spotted a couple of threats to heritage sites there – mining and port development.
嗯，我注意到那里存在一些对遗产地构成威胁的活动，比如采矿和港口建设。

120. Now, any type of industrial activity can harm them by, for example, encroaching on the natural habitat of animals and plants living there, or by polluting the water that flows into the site.
如今，任何形式的工业活动都可能对它们造成危害，比如侵占生活在那里的动植物的自然栖息地，或者污染流入该区域的水源。

121. Hmm, mining is the process of extracting coal or other minerals from the ground.
嗯，采矿就是从地下提取煤炭或其他矿物的过程。

122. And if you encroach on something, it means you move beyond acceptable limits.
而如果你侵犯了某些界限，那就意味着你已经超出了可接受的范围。

123. The interesting thing is that World Heritage sites only constitute 0.5% of the Earth's surface.
有趣的是，世界遗产地仅占地球表面的0.5%。

124. So why can't people do their mining and industrial development on the remaining 99.5%?
那么，为什么人们不能在剩下的99.5%的土地上进行采矿和工业开发呢？

125. But there's one human industry that can actually be beneficial for precious sites – tourism.
但确实有一种人类活动能够对这些珍贵遗址产生积极影响，那就是旅游业。

126. But you said earlier that tourism was bad for heritage sites.

但你之前说过，旅游业对遗产地是有害的。

127. I know.

我知道。

128. And I was right up to a point.

在某种程度上，我是正确的。

129. World heritage sites are some of tourism's main attractions and more and more people are visiting them.

世界遗产地是旅游业的主要吸引点之一，越来越多的人前往参观这些地方。

130. So it's all about getting the balance right between generating money to maintain and restore the sites and minimising the impact of tourist activities.

因此，关键在于在通过开展旅游活动来筹集资金以维护和修复这些遗址与将旅游活动对环境的影响降到最低之间找到恰当的平衡点。

131. Such as littering and graffiti.

比如乱扔垃圾和涂鸦行为。

132. Exactly.

正是如此。

133. And the term for this is sustainable tourism or tourism designed to have a low impact on the local culture and the environment while generating employment for local people.

这种现象被称为可持续旅游，也就是那种在为当地居民创造就业机会的同时，对当地文化和环境造成的影响尽可能小的旅游发展模式。

134. So UNESCO is working to direct governments, site managers and visitors towards sustainable tourism practices in order to keep our world's natural and cultural heritage safe for future generations.

因此，联合国教科文组织正在努力引导各国政府、遗址管理方以及游客采取可持续的旅游发展方式，从而确保我们世界的自然与文化遗产能够为后代所珍视和保护。

135. Wow, you can really talk the talk, Alice.

哇，艾丽丝，你果然说到做到了啊。

136. You should work for UNESCO.

你应该为联合国教科文组织工作。

137. OK, let's move on now and listen to Paul Crocombe of the Snorkelling and Diving Company in Townsville, Queensland, Australia, giving his view on how the Great Barrier Reef will cope with threats to its survival.

好的，现在让我们继续听澳大利亚昆士兰州汤斯维尔市Snorkelling and Diving公司的保罗·克罗科姆分享他对于大堡礁如何应对生存威胁的看法。

138. The reef is fairly dynamic.

这个珊瑚礁具有相当强的动态变化能力。

139. It's been through a couple of ice ages and still here.

它经历了几次冰河时代，却依然存在至今。

140. So its resilience will ensure that the reef is still here in years to come.

因此，它的这种恢复能力将确保这片珊瑚礁在未来多年依然存在。

141. But the species diversity and the visual aesthetics of the reef may change quite considerably, especially if you get an increase in sea temperature and increase in carbon dioxide and the water and things like that.

但是，珊瑚礁的物种多样性及其视觉美感可能会发生相当大的变化，尤其是当海水温度上升、二氧化碳浓度增加以及水质等其他因素发生变化时。

142. Paul Crocombe describes the reef as dynamic and resilient.

保罗·克罗科姆将这片珊瑚礁描述为充满活力且具有韧性。

143. Dynamic means active or capable of changing, and resilience means the ability to recover or adapt to change, which all sounds good.

“动态”意味着具有变化的能力，而“韧性”则指恢复或适应变化的能力，这些概念听起来都很积极正面。

144. But Paul also says that the species' diversity – the range of plants and animals – may change.

但保罗也指出，该物种的多样性——也就是各种植物和动物的种类——可能会发生变化。

145. For example, a rise in sea temperature would cause a rise in carbon dioxide levels and this could have a big impact on both the species diversity and the reef's visual aesthetic or the way it looks.

例如，海水温度的上升会导致二氧化碳浓度的增加，而这可能会对物种多样性以及珊瑚礁的视觉外观产生重大影响。

146. OK, I think it's time now for the answer to today's quiz question, Alice.

好的，我觉得现在是时候公布今天测验问题的答案了，爱丽丝。

147. Yes, I think so too.

是的，我也这么认为。

148. OK, so I asked you which sea creature poses a potential threat to the Great Barrier Reef's ecosystem?

好的，所以我问你们，哪种海洋生物可能对大堡礁的生态系统构成威胁？

149. Is it a type of a starfish, b jellyfish or c cuttlefish?

它是海星吗？还是水母？又或者是乌贼呢？

150. And I said b jellyfish.

然后我说“水母”。

151. And you got stung, I'm afraid, Neil.

恐怕你被蜇了，尼尔。

152. The answer is starfish.

答案是海星。

153. The crown of thorns starfish preys on coral and large outbreaks of these starfish can devastate reefs.

带刺冠海星以珊瑚为食，而当这类海星的数量急剧增加时，它们会严重破坏珊瑚礁。

154. Now, can you remind us of some of today's vocabulary, Neil?

现在，尼尔，你能给我们回顾一下今天所学的一些词汇吗？

155. Sure.

当然可以。

156. Encroach on something.

侵犯某物的权益。

157. Sustainable tourism.

可持续旅游。

158. Dynamic.

动态的。

159. Resilience.

韧性。

160. Species diversity.

物种多样性。

161. Visual aesthetic.

视觉美学。

162. Well, that's the end of today's 6 Minute English.

好了，今天的“6分钟英语”节目就到这里结束了。

163. Don't forget to join us again soon.

别忘了尽快再次加入我们。

164. Bye!

再见！

165. Goodbye.

再见。

166. Hello, this is 6 Minute English from BBC Learning English.

Hello, this is "6 Minute English" from BBC Learning English.

167. I'm Neil.

我叫尼尔。

168. And I'm Beth.

而我叫贝丝。

169. Nowadays, the word safari is often used negatively.

如今，“safari”这个词常常被用于负面的含义中。

170. For many people, the idea of killing animals for sport is unacceptable.

对许多人来说，为了娱乐而杀害动物的行为是难以接受的。

171. As the popularity of hunting declines, safaris are swapping their guns for cameras, offering tourists the chance to photograph wild animals in their natural habitat.

随着狩猎活动的受欢迎程度下降，野生动物观赏活动不再使用枪支，而是改用相机，为游客提供了在野生动物自然栖息地中拍摄它们的机会。

172. In recent years, nature and wildlife tourism, also called ecotourism, has grown massively.

近年来，自然与野生动物旅游，也就是人们常说的生态旅游，发展势头极为迅猛。

173. But the story is complex.

但这个故事很复杂。

174. While money from ecotourism is supposed to support threatened wildlife and traditional local cultures, the reality is sometimes different.

虽然生态旅游所带来的收入本应用于保护濒危野生动物和弘扬当地传统文化，但实际情况往往并非如此。

175. In this programme, we'll be asking, is ecotourism good or bad?

在这个节目中，我们将探讨这样一个问题：生态旅游到底是好事还是坏事？

176. And as usual, we'll be learning some useful new vocabulary as well.

而且像往常一样，我们也会学习一些实用的新词汇。

177. But first I have a question for you, Beth.

但首先，我有个问题要问你，贝丝。

178. Most tourists on safari are looking for the Big Five, the name given to Africa's most iconic large animals.

大多数参加野生动物观光的游客都在寻找“五大动物”，这些动物是非洲最具代表性的大型野生动物。

179. But which animals are the Big Five?

但是哪些动物属于“五大动物”呢？

180. a The lion, leopard, giraffe, baboon and buffalo b The lion, leopard, tiger, elephant and buffalo c The lion, leopard, rhinoceros, elephant and buffalo a 狮子、豹子、长颈鹿、狒狒和水牛

b 狮子、豹子、老虎、大象和水牛

c 狮子、豹子、犀牛、大象和水牛

181. I guess it's A – the lion, leopard, giraffe, baboon and buffalo.

我想是A选项——狮子、豹子、长颈鹿、狒狒和水牛。

182. I'll reveal the answer at the end of the programme.

我将在节目结束时揭晓答案。

183. The balance between the good and bad things ecotourism can bring is well understood by Vicky Smith, whose website Earth Changes matches ecotourists with environmentally friendly travel companies.

维基·史密斯非常清楚生态旅游所带来的利弊之间的平衡。她的网站“地球变化”致力于为生态旅游者与那些注重环保的旅游公司牵线搭桥。

184. Here's Vicky talking with BBC Radio 4 programme Costing the Earth.

以下是维基与BBC Radio 4的节目《Costing the Earth》进行的对话。

185. Just because tourism is nature-based, it doesn't mean to say it's necessarily responsible or sustainable.

仅仅因为旅游业以自然为依托，并不意味着它就一定是负责任或可持续发展的。

186. So there's a lot of animal activities in tourism that we know which are highly irresponsible and unsustainable, like performing whale and dolphin shows or swimming with dolphins, elephant riding, tiger selfies where the tigers are drugged. We know, tourism exists many highly irresponsible and unsustainable activities, such as whale and dolphin performances, swimming with dolphins, riding elephants, and letting tigers take photos with people after being drugged.

187. Genuine ecotourism is sustainable, designed to continue at a steady level which does not damage the environment.

真正的生态旅游是可持续发展的，其发展模式旨在保持稳定的发展速度，同时不会对环境造成破坏。

188. Not every travel company which calls themselves eco-friendly acts sustainably and may still advertise irresponsible tourist activities, including tiger selfies, having your photo taken with a captive wild tiger.

并非所有自称环保的旅游公司都真正采取可持续发展模式，它们仍可能宣传一些不负责任的旅游活动，比如与被圈养的野生老虎合影，或者拍摄与老虎的自拍。

189. There are two requirements travel companies should meet to qualify as genuine ecotourism.

旅行公司要想符合真正的生态旅游标准，就必须满足两项要求。

190. First, tourists' main motivation should be to appreciate and observe the natural world without interfering.

首先，游客的主要动机应该是欣赏和观察自然世界，而不对其进行干预。

191. And second, the money they spend should support traditional communities.
其次，他们所花费的资金应当用于支持传统社区的发展。

192. Clearly, having your photograph taken with a chained and drugged tiger does not meet these requirements.

显然，与被链住且被下药的老虎一起拍照并不符合这些要求。

193. But not all companies claiming to be ecotourism behave so irresponsibly.
但并不是所有自称从事生态旅游的公司都会如此不负责任地行事。

194. According to Antonia Bolingbroke-Kent, who runs small-scale wildlife expeditions to some of the most remote places on Earth, it's possible to put travel companies on a sliding scale from good to bad.

根据安东尼娅·博林布鲁克-肯特的说法，她经常组织前往地球上一些最为偏远地区的小型野生动物探险活动，可以将旅行社按照服务质量从好到差进行排序。

195. On BBC Radio 4's programme Costing the Earth, Antonia discussed her work in Tajikistan, a country where ecotourism is making a positive impact on both animal and human communities.

在BBC Radio 4的节目《评估地球的代价》中，安东尼娅谈到了她在塔吉克斯坦的工作。在那个国家，生态旅游正在对动物和人类社区产生积极的影响。

196. At the other end of the scale is Tajikistan, where I work a lot, which gets less than two dozen wildlife tourists a year.

在另一端，是塔吉克斯坦——我在那里工作过很多次，那里每年接待的野生动物观光游客数量不足二十人。

197. And the money these visitors bring is essential to the conservation work that grassroots NGOs are doing.

而这些游客带来的资金，对于基层非政府组织所开展的保护工作而言，至关重要。

198. So those few tourists, their money goes a very long way and the animals people are looking at, snow leopards, rare mountain ungulates like Bukhara and Markal, they are being observed from a distance, their behaviour is not being affected in any way and the local communities are genuinely benefiting.

所以，那少数几位游客所花费的钱确实发挥了很大的作用——人们所观赏的那些动物，比如雪豹以及布哈拉鹿、马尔卡鹿这类珍稀的山区有蹄类动物，都可以在远处被观察到，它们的行为丝毫没有因此受到影响，而当地社区也确实从中受益。

199. Antonia uses the phrase at the other end of the scale as a way of contrasting irresponsible tourist companies with what's happening in Tajikistan.

安东尼娅使用“处于另一个极端的情况”这一表述，目的是将那些不负责任的旅游公司与塔吉克斯坦目前发生的实际情况形成对比。

200. There, animals including snow leopards and mountain ungulates are being protected by ecotourist projects run by non-governmental organisations, or NGOs, organisations trying to achieve environmental or social aims outside of government control.

在那里，包括雪豹和山地有蹄类动物在内的各种动物正受到非政府组织开展的生态旅游项目的保护。这些非政府组织致力于在政府监管之外实现环保或社会目标。

201. These NGOs are grassroots organisations, meaning that they are run from the bottom up by ordinary people rather than leaders.

这些非政府组织属于基层组织，也就是说，它们是由普通人而非领导者自下而上运作的。

202. Despite getting very few eco-tourists a year, the money they spend in Tajikistan goes a long way.

尽管每年接待的生态旅游者数量很少，但他们在塔吉克斯坦所花费的钱却起到了很大的作用。

203. In other words, the money is an important factor in achieving their goals, which in Tajikistan at least means protecting rare wild animals.

换句话说，资金是实现这些目标的重要因素，在塔吉克斯坦，这至少意味着要保护珍稀野生动物。

204. OK, it's time to reveal the answer to my question.

好的，现在是时候揭晓我这个问题的答案了。

205. You asked me about the Big Five, the name for Africa's iconic safari animals.

你问我关于“五大动物”的事情，这其实是人们对非洲那些具有标志性的野生动物的一种称呼。

206. I guessed they were the lion, leopard, giraffe, baboon and buffalo.

我猜它们分别是狮子、豹子、长颈鹿、狒狒和水牛。

207. You guessed right about the lion, leopard and buffalo, but the others were the rhinoceros and the elephant.

你关于狮子、豹子和水牛的猜测是正确的，而另外两种动物则是犀牛和大象。

208. OK, let's recap the vocabulary we've learned from this programme about ecotourism.

好的，让我们回顾一下从这个节目中学习到的与生态旅游相关的词汇。

209. Travel to places of natural beauty where the tourist's motivation is to appreciate nature and support the local culture.

前往那些自然风光优美的地方旅行，游客前往这些地方的目的是为了欣赏大自然并支持当地文化。

210. The adjective sustainable describes actions designed to continue at a steady level so as not to damage the environment.

“可持续”这一形容词用来描述那些旨在以稳定的速度持续进行、从而不会对环境造成损害的各类行为。

211. A tiger selfie means having your photo taken with a captive wild tiger.

与野生老虎合影意味着让老虎在被圈养的环境中为你拍照。

212. Not something to be advised.

这不是什么值得推荐的做法。

213. The phrase at the other end of the scale is similar in meaning to the phrase by contrast.

与之相反，另一个极端的情况在含义上与之类似。

214. A grassroots NGO is a non-governmental organisation which tries to achieve its aims through the actions of local, ordinary people rather than leaders.

基层非政府组织是一种这样的非政府组织：它试图通过普通当地民众而非领导者的行动来实现自身的目标。

215. And finally, if something goes a long way towards a certain goal, it's an important factor in achieving that goal.

最后，如果某件事对实现某个目标具有极大的帮助，那么它就是实现该目标的重要因素。

216. Once again, our six minutes are up.

再一次，我们的六分钟时间已经用完了。

217. Goodbye for now!

暂时再见了！

218. Bye!

再见！

219. Hello and welcome to 6 Minute English.

Hello and welcome to 6 Minute English.

220. I'm Alice.

我叫爱丽丝。

221. And I'm Neil.

我叫尼尔。

222. Did you have a good weekend, Alice?

艾丽丝，你这个周末过得愉快吗？

223. Yes, but it flew by, which means it went quickly.

是的，但它飞得很快，也就是说它的速度非常快。

224. And here we are again back at work.

现在我们又回来工作了。

225. I know what you mean.

我明白你的意思。

226. Though I must say time really dragged for me and that means it went slowly.
虽然我必须承认，时间对我来说过得实在很慢，也就是说一切进展都非常缓慢。

227. I was on a train which broke down and it felt like it took forever to arrive, though actually it was only delayed by one hour.

我当时在一列发生故障的火车上，感觉它花了很长时间才到达目的地，但实际上只是延误了一个小时而已。

228. Well, today we are talking about our perception of, or the way we see, time.
那么，今天我们要讨论的是我们对时间的认知，或者说我们看待时间的方式。

229. It's true that when we're busy doing lots of things, time flies by.
的确，当我们忙于做很多事情的时候，时间会飞快地流逝。

230. And when we're bored or have nothing to do, it drags.
而当我们感到无聊或者无所事事的时候，时间就会变得格外漫长、枯燥无味。

231. And I didn't have anything to do on the train.
在火车上，我没什么事情可做。

232. Do you think time flows at the same rate for everyone, even animals?
你认为时间对所有人来说流动的速度都是一样的吗，包括动物在内？

233. My cat doesn't get bored doing nothing all day.
我的猫一整天什么都不做，却一点也不觉得无聊。

234. I wonder if time drags for her sometimes.
我想知道，对她来说，时间有时候会不会显得特别漫长。

235. Good question.
好问题。

236. Did you know, Neil, that according to a new study, smaller animals perceive time as if it is passing in slow motion?
你知道吗，尼尔，根据一项新的研究，体型较小的动物会感觉时间像是以慢动作在流逝。

237. That sounds weird.
那听起来很奇怪。

238. Do you think they hear us like this?
你认为他们能以这种方式听到我们的话吗？

239. Talking slowly.
说话速度很慢。

240. Don't be silly, Neil.
别犯傻了，尼尔。

241. What I meant was that small animals such as insects and small birds can observe more detail in a certain period of time, for example a second, than larger animals.

我的意思是，像昆虫和小鸟这样的小型动物，在短短一秒钟这样的短时间内，能够观察到比大型动物更多的细节。

242. And how does this help them exactly?

那么，这究竟是如何帮助他们的呢？

243. It sounds like the day would really drag if every second got stretched out like that.

如果每一秒钟都被拉得那么长，那么这一天肯定会显得异常漫长。

244. It helps them by giving them time to escape larger predators.

这为它们提供了逃避大型捕食者的时间，从而帮助了它们生存。

245. Now, I have a question for you Neil.

现在，我有个问题要问你，尼尔。

246. Can you tell me roughly how much more quickly a fly's eye can react than a human eye?

你能大概告诉我，苍蝇的眼睛的反应速度比人类的眼睛快多少吗？

247. Is it a twice as quickly, b four times as quickly or c ten times as quickly?

是快两倍，还是快四倍，又或者是快十倍呢？

248. Well, I'll go for C ten times.

好吧，我选C选项十次。

249. Flies are pretty nippy.

苍蝇的速度相当快。

250. And that's another word for quick.

而这也就是“快速”的另一种说法。

251. Yes, well, we'll find out later on if you got the answer right or not.

嗯，我们稍后就会知道你是否答对了。

252. Now, small animals can typically process more visual information than we can.

如今，小型动物通常能够处理比我们更多的视觉信息。

253. But in a dangerous situation, our brains can work in overdrive to process information more quickly.

但在危险的情况下，我们的大脑会进入高速运转状态，从而更快地处理信息。

254. And overdrive means a state of extreme activity.

而“过度活跃”指的是一种处于极度活跃状态的情况。

255. Let's listen to Raza Rumi, a writer and broadcaster in Pakistan, talking about the unusual way his brain worked when gunmen opened fire on him in his car.

让我们来听听巴基斯坦作家兼广播员拉扎·鲁米的故事。当时枪手在他的车内向他开枪，而他

则描述了自己大脑在那种极端情况下的异常反应。

256. It lasted for a few minutes, but to me that particular incident feels like it was for hours.

那件事只持续了几分钟，但对我来说，那段经历仿佛持续了几个小时。

257. I think my brain was working in a very strange way.

我觉得我的大脑当时是以一种非常奇怪的方式运行的。

258. Parallel and multiple thoughts and streams of consciousness were sort of running along.

多种并行且相互交织的思绪与意识流在同时运转着。

259. I have to save my head, because if I get a bullet in my brain, I'm dead.

我必须保住自己的性命，因为如果子弹击中我的大脑，我就会死。

260. And at the same time, was it all worth it?

同时，这一切真的值得吗？

261. And alas, what a short life it was.

唉，真是短暂的一生啊。

262. It was lovely.

那真是太美好了。

263. I was petrified that I'm going to die.

我害怕极了，生怕自己会死掉。

264. rather roomy there, so he was petrified by the attack, which means extremely frightened.

那里的空间相当宽敞，因此他遭到攻击时吓得魂不附体，也就是说，他恐惧到了极点。

265. As a result, his brain started working in a strange way.

结果，他的大脑开始以一种奇怪的方式运转起来。

266. He was thinking and feeling lots of different things at the same time.

他同时思考着许多不同的东西，也体验着种种不同的情绪。

267. That's right.

没错。

268. He remembers thinking practical thoughts like, I have to save my head.

他记得自己当时想着一些实际的问题，比如“我必须保住自己的性命”。

269. But in parallel, or at the same time, he also remembers having philosophical thoughts such as, what a short life it was, it was lovely.

但与此同时，他也会产生一些哲学性的思考，比如“人生如此短暂，却也十分美好”。

270. Hmm, have you ever been in a dangerous situation where your brain went into overdrive?

嗯，你有没有经历过那种危险的情况，当时你的大脑会进入高度兴奋的状态？

271. Yeah, I was ten years old and I fell backwards out of a big tree in our garden.
是的，我当时10岁，从我们花园里的一棵大树上摔了下来。

272. Oh no!
哦不！

273. Yeah, I have a vivid memory of the sun flashing above me and the clouds moving across the sky and the leaves rustling in the trees above me.
是的，我清楚地记得太阳在我头顶闪耀，云朵在天空中飘动，而我头顶上的树叶也在沙沙作响。

274. My mum was screaming through the kitchen window as she saw me fall.
当我妈妈看到我摔倒的时候，她从厨房的窗户里大声呼喊起来。

275. I experienced so much in the space of just a few seconds, just like Razorum describes.
在短短几秒钟的时间里，我经历了太多事情，正如Razorum所描述的那样。

276. Yes, a vivid memory, by the way, is clear and detailed.
是的，顺便说一下，生动的记忆往往是清晰而详尽的。

277. Oh poor Neil, did you hurt yourself?
哦，可怜的尼尔，你受伤了吗？

278. Some big bruises but no broken bones.
有一些严重的淤伤，但没有骨折。

279. Glad to hear it.
很高兴听到这个消息。

280. Now, it's a strange trick of memory that in a scary situation your brain starts to record everything in great detail.
现在，有一种奇怪的记忆现象：在面对可怕的情形时，你的大脑会开始极其详细地记录下发生的一切。

281. And the more memory you have of an event, the longer you believe it took.
你对某一事件记忆越深刻，你就越会认为它持续的时间更长。

282. This idea explains why children often feel that time is passing slowly because their experiences are new and they are creating lots of new memories.
这个解释说明了为什么孩子们常常会觉得时间过得很慢，因为他们的经历都是全新的，而且他们在不断形成许多新的记忆。

283. whereas boring grown-ups like us are following routines that don't require new memories because they're so familiar.
而像我们这些无聊的成年人，却一直遵循那些不需要形成新记忆的常规行为，因为这些行为对我们来说已经太过熟悉了。

284. But let's listen to Claudia Hammond, author of Time Warped, talking about how we can stretch time and make our days feel longer in a good way.

但让我们来听听《时间扭曲》一书的作者克劳迪娅·哈蒙德，她将为我们讲解如何以积极的方式延长时间，让每一天感觉更漫长。

285. If you can spend your weekend filling it with loads of new different activities, it will go fast at the time because you're having fun.

如果你能利用周末时间去参加各种各样新的活动，那么这段时光就会过得很快，因为你会感到很开心。

286. But when you look back, say, on Sunday night and you've got to go to work next day, it will feel as if your weekend was long because you've filled it with new memories.

但当你回首往事，比如在周日晚上，而第二天又必须去上班时，你会觉得自己的周末其实很长，因为这段时间里你留下了许多新的回忆。

287. We should do that this weekend.

我们这个周末应该去做那件事。

288. Neil, what do you think?

尼尔，你怎么看？

289. Definitely.

当然。

290. I'm going to buzz around like a fly creating loads of new memories.

我将会像一只苍蝇一样四处飞来飞去，创造无数新的回忆。

291. Now, are you ready for the answer to today's quiz question?

现在，你们是否已经准备好迎接今天测验问题的答案了呢？

292. I asked roughly how much more quickly a fly's eye can react than a human eye.

我大致询问过，苍蝇的眼睛的反应速度比人类的眼睛快多少。

293. Is it a twice as quickly, b four times as quickly or c ten times as quickly?

是快两倍，还是快四倍，又或者是快十倍呢？

294. And I said c ten times as quickly.

而且我说“c”这个单词的速度快了十倍。

295. The correct answer is B, four times as quickly.

正确答案是B，速度是原来的四倍。

296. Flies have eyes that send updates to the brain at much higher frequencies than our eyes because they can process the information more quickly.

苍蝇的眼睛能够以远高于我们人类的频率向大脑传递信息，因为它们处理这些信息的速度要快得多。

297. This speed illustrates the impressive capabilities of even the smallest animal brains.

这样的速度足以证明，即便是最小的动物大脑，也拥有令人惊叹的能力。

298. Well, before we buzz off, perhaps we should hear the words we learned today.

好了，在我们走之前，也许我们应该听听今天学到的单词。

299. They are, flew by, dragged, perception, nippy, overdrive, petrified, in parallel.

它们同时存在着：飞掠而过、被拖拽、产生感知、变得冰冷刺骨、进入超速状态、陷入恐惧.....这一切都同时发生着。

300. Well, that's the end of today's 6 Minute English.

好了，今天的“6分钟英语”节目就到这里结束了。

301. Remember to join us again soon.

记得尽快再次加入我们吧。

302. Goodbye.

再见。

303. Hello, this is 6 Minute English from BBC Learning English.

Hello, this is “6 Minute English” from BBC Learning English.

304. I'm Neil.

我叫尼尔。

305. And I'm Georgie.

我叫乔治。

306. Now, if I told you I'd been for a walk to see Big Ben and Buckingham Palace, you'd know straight away I was in London.

现在，如果我告诉你们我去散步时参观了大本钟和白金汉宫，你们肯定会立刻知道我在伦敦。

307. But what if my walk went past cafes selling mozzarella and ricotta, where I smelled freshly made cannolis and focaccia?

但要是我走过的路上有售卖马苏里拉奶酪和里科塔奶酪的咖啡馆，而我还能闻到新鲜制作的卡诺利饼和佛卡夏面包的香气，那该多好啊？

308. Where would I be then?

那么我会在哪里呢？

309. Focaccia and mozzarella?

佛卡夏面包和马苏里拉奶酪？

310. Well, you'd be in Italy, right?

嗯，那你现在应该是在意大利吧？

311. Yes, Italy, or Little Italy to be exact.

是的，是意大利，或者更确切地说，是“小意大利”。

312. The neighbourhood in some cities where Italian communities settled and made their home.

在某些城市中，意大利社区定居并安家的那些区域。

313. These Italian arrivals opened shops and cafes, selling food to their own communities.

这些来自意大利的新移民开了商店和咖啡馆，为他们的同胞们提供食物。

314. Soon, dishes like spaghetti and meatballs attracted the attention of local people and gradually Italian food became famous around the world.

不久，像意大利面和肉丸这样的菜肴吸引了当地人的注意，逐渐地，意大利美食也就闻名于世了。

315. In this programme, we'll be taking a walk through two Little Italys – one in Argentina, the other in New York – and, as usual, we'll be learning some useful new vocabulary as well.

在这个节目中，我们将走进两个“小意大利”——一个在阿根廷，另一个在纽约——而且像往常一样，我们还会学习一些有用的新词汇。

316. But before that, I have a question for you, Georgie.

但在此之前，我有个问题要问你，乔治。

317. According to a recent YouGov poll, which Italian food is most popular with British diners?

根据YouGov最近的一项调查，哪种意大利食物最受英国食客的喜爱？

318. Is it a pizza, b lasagna or c garlic bread?

是披萨、千层面，还是蒜香面包呢？

319. I think it must be pizza.

我想肯定是披萨吧。

320. OK, Georgie, I'll reveal the answer at the end of the programme.

好的，乔治，我会在节目结束时公布答案。

321. One country Italians moved to was Argentina.

意大利人移居的一个国家是阿根廷。

322. In 1898, Giuseppe Banchemo arrived in the neighbourhood of La Boca, the little Italy of Buenos Aires, where many Italian immigrants started restaurants.

1898年，朱塞佩·班切罗来到了布宜诺斯艾利斯的“小意大利”——拉博卡地区，在那里许多意大利移民开起了餐馆。

323. Here, Hugo Banchemo, grandson of Giuseppe, tells his story to Veronica Smink, reporter for BBC World Service programme The Food Chain.

在这里，朱塞佩的孙子雨果·班切罗向BBC世界服务节目《食物链》的记者维罗妮卡·斯明克讲述了自己的故事。

324. Well, my grandfather came from Italy, from Genoa, from Liguria.

我的祖父来自意大利，来自热那亚，来自利古里亚地区。

325. He was born in the center of Genoa and arrived here in 1898 at the age of seven and a half.

他出生于热那亚市中心，1898年时七岁半，来到了这里。

326. And this pizzeria where we are was founded on March 28, 1932.

我们现在所在的这家披萨店成立于1932年3月28日。

327. We have been here for 91 years.

我们已经在这里待了91年。

328. So what culinary traditions did they bring with them?

那么，他们带来了哪些烹饪传统呢？

329. Well, our culinary tradition is pizzeria.

嗯，我们的饮食传统与披萨店息息相关。

330. And we incorporated the faina from Genoa, which is a pizza with chickpea flour.

我们还加入了来自热那亚的“faina”，这种披萨是用鹰嘴豆粉制成的。

331. In 1898, Giuseppe founded his pizzeria, a restaurant selling pizza.

1898年，朱塞佩创办了自己的披萨店，这是一家专营披萨的餐厅。

332. When a business is founded, it's established.

当一家企业成立时，它便正式诞生了。

333. Someone starts it up or sets it up.

有人会启动它或设置它。

334. Giuseppe brought the culinary traditions from his home in Liguria in northern Italy, including regional pizzas like faina and fur gazzetta.

朱塞佩将他家乡意大利北部利古里亚地区的烹饪传统带到了这里，其中包括法伊纳和弗尔加泽塔这类当地的披萨。

335. The adjective culinary describes anything connected with cooking.

形容词“culinary”指的是与烹饪有关的任何事物。

336. But probably the best known Little Italy in the world is an area of Manhattan's Lower East Side in New York.

但或许世界上最为人熟知的小意大利，就是位于纽约曼哈顿下东区的那个区域。

337. 90% of Italian immigrants who arrived in the US at the turn of the century came through this neighbourhood.

在世纪之交来到美国的意大利移民中，有90%都是通过这个社区来到美国的。

338. De Palos, one of the original shops selling Italian food in Little Italy, has been serving customers for 113 years.

德帕洛斯是小意大利地区最早出售意大利食物的店铺之一，至今已经为顾客服务了113年。

339. Here, Lou De Palos, co-owner and great-grandson of the original owner Salvino, explains more about his family history to BBC World Service programme The Food Chain.

在这里，洛·德·帕洛斯——这位原业主萨尔维诺的联合所有者兼曾孙——向BBC世界服务台的节目《食物链》进一步讲述了他家族的历史。

340. 1925, when my grandmother, Concetta, and my grandfather, Luigi, got married, they opened their own shop.

1925年，我的祖母康切塔和祖父路易吉结婚后，他们开了自己的商店。

341. It's the shop we continue today.

这就是我们今天要继续介绍的这家商店。

342. Being the fourth generation, working alongside my sister, Maria, and my brother, Sal, and our children, the fifth generation, our business has expanded, expanded to represent the full food culture of the 20 regions of Italy.

作为第四代经营者，我和我的姐姐玛丽亚、弟弟萨尔以及我们的孩子们——也就是第五代成员一起共同努力，使得我们的业务得以发展壮大，如今我们已经能够代表意大利20个地区的完整饮食文化。

343. Little Italy is the stepping stone of the Italian immigrant.

小意大利是意大利移民们的起点。

344. This is where many of the Italians first came through Ellis Island and then settled here and then eventually moved into mainstream America throughout the rest of the country.

许多意大利人最初就是通过埃利斯岛来到这里，然后在此定居，最终陆续迁移到美国其他地区，融入了美国的主流社会。

345. Lou De Palo is the fourth generation of his family to run the shop and his children will be the fifth.

Lou De Palo是家族中第四代经营这家店铺的人，而他的孩子们将会成为第五代。

346. Phrases like fourth or fifth generation describe the children of people whose parents immigrated to a particular country.

诸如“第四代”或“第五代”这样的说法，是用来指那些父母移民到了某个特定国家的人们的后代。

347. After arriving in New York, many Italian immigrants moved on to start successful new lives elsewhere.

在抵达纽约后，许多意大利移民随后前往其他地方，开始了新的、成功的生活。

348. That's why Lou calls Little Italy a stepping stone – an experience that helps you achieve something else, like a real stepping stone helps you cross a river.

这就是为什么卢称小意大利是一块垫脚石——这种经历能帮助你实现其他目标，就如同真正的垫脚石能帮助你渡过河流一样。

349. As a result, Italian newcomers became accepted in mainstream America – mainstream, meaning the culture and customs viewed as normal by most Americans.

因此，意大利裔新移民得以被美国主流社会所接纳——所谓“主流社会”，指的是那些被大多数美国人视为正常的文化和习俗。

350. It seems we owe a lot to Little Italy, but we still don't know which food is most popular here in the UK.

看来我们确实欠小意大利很多“人情”，不过我们仍然不知道在英国，哪种食物在这里最受欢迎。

351. Isn't it time to reveal the answer to your question, Neil?

是不是该揭晓你这个问题的答案了，尼尔？

352. Right.

对。

353. I asked you which Italian food is most popular in Britain and you said pizza, which would be my guess too, but is the wrong answer, I'm afraid.

我问过你，哪种意大利食物在英国最受欢迎，你说的是披萨，我猜也是这个答案，但恐怕这是错误的。

354. In fact, the top choice for Italian food fans here in the UK is garlic bread.

事实上，对于英国的意大利美食爱好者来说，最受欢迎的食物就是蒜香面包。

355. Right, let's recap the vocabulary we've learned from this programme on Little Italy, starting with pizzeria – a restaurant that sells pizza.

好的，让我们回顾一下从这个关于小意大利的节目中所学到的词汇。首先是“pizzeria”——这种餐馆专门出售披萨。

356. If something is founded, it's started or established.

如果某事物被创立，那就意味着它已经被开始或建立起来了。

357. The adjective culinary describes anything connected with cooking.

形容词“culinary”指的是与烹饪有关的任何事物。

358. Phrases like fourth or fifth generation describe the children of people whose parents immigrated to a particular country.

像“第四代”或“第五代”这样的表述，是用来指那些父母移民到了某个特定国家的人们的后代。

359. A stepping stone is an event or experience that helps you advance or achieve something new.

一个垫脚石就是那种能够帮助你取得进步或实现新目标的事件或经历。

360. And finally, the adjective mainstream describes the customs and culture which are accepted as normal by most people in a society.

最后，“主流”这一形容词用来指代那些被社会中的大多数人所视为正常的习俗和文化。

361. Once again, our six minutes are up.

再一次，我们的六分钟时间已经用完了。

362. Until the next time here at 6 Minute English, it's ciao!

直到下次在“6分钟英语”节目中再见，再见！

363. Ciao!

嗨！

闪电英语