

1. Six Minute English from BBC Learning English.

BBC Learning English的“六分钟英语”节目。

2. Hello and welcome to 6 Minute English.

Hello and welcome to 6 Minute English.

3. I'm Rob.

我叫罗布。

4. And hello, I'm Neil.

Hello, my name is Neil.

5. Hi there, Neil.

嗨，尼尔。

6. Now, have you ever had a close encounter with a monkey or an ape?

现在，你是否曾经与猴子或类人猿有过近距离的接触？

7. Well, I am sitting next to you, Rob.

嗯，我现在就坐在你旁边，罗布。

8. Very funny.

非常有趣。

9. No, Neil is referring to the fact that all humans are descended from apes and apes and monkeys belong to a group of animals called primates.

不，尼尔指的是这样一个事实：所有人类都是从猿类进化而来的，而猿类和猴子都属于一类被称为灵长类的动物。

10. The difference is that monkeys have tails and apes don't.

不同之处在于，猴子有尾巴，而类人猿没有。

11. Well, I didn't know that.

嗯，我之前并不知道这一点。

12. On a serious note, I had a close shave with some monkeys once in Bali.

说正经的，我在巴厘岛的时候曾有幸与一些猴子近距离接触。

13. A close shave is where you only just managed to avoid a dangerous situation.

侥幸躲过一劫是指你刚刚才设法避开了一个危险的处境。

14. So Neil, what happened?

那么，尼尔，发生了什么事呢？

15. I was walking up a mountain on my own and suddenly a bunch of monkeys jumped out of nowhere, blocking my path.

我当时正在独自爬山，突然有一群猴子从无处出现，挡住了我的去路。

16. Oh goodness.

哦，天哪。

17. OK, so what did you do?

好吧，那你当时做了什么？

18. After standing there for ages while the monkeys screeched at me, I turned round and walked back the way I came.

在那儿站了许久，听着猴子们对着我尖叫，我转身沿着来时的路走了回去。

19. OK.

OK.

20. If you screech at someone, it means to make a loud, high and unpleasant sound.

如果你对某人大喊大叫，那就意味着你要发出响亮、高亢且刺耳的声音。

21. So the monkeys won that face-off then?

所以那些猴子在那场对抗中获胜了，是吗？

22. Absolutely, yes, they did.

当然，是的，他们确实这么做了。

23. And a face-off, by the way, means an argument or fight.

顺便说一下，“face-off”指的是争吵或打架。

24. Well, today's show is about gibbons and the different sounds they make.

好吧，今天的节目主要是介绍长臂猿以及它们发出的各种声音。

25. Gibbons are small apes that live in South East Asia.

长臂猿是一种生活在东南亚的小型类人猿。

26. And while Neil's monkeys screech unpleasantly, gibbons sound like they're singing.

而当尼尔的那些猴子发出刺耳的叫声时，长臂猿发出的声音却听起来像是在歌唱。

27. Musical apes, that's nice.

会演奏音乐的类人猿，真是太棒了。

28. So how about today's quiz question, Rob?

那么，罗布，今天的问答环节怎么样？

29. OK, good idea.

好的，这个主意不错。

30. How far can a gibbon's voice travel through the forest?

长臂猿的叫声能在森林中传播多远？

31. Is it a 500 metres,

是500米的距离吗？

32. B 1 kilometre or C 5 kilometres?

B. 1公里，还是C. 5公里？

33. Well, I have to guess and I'm going to say B 1 kilometre.

嗯，我得猜一下，我想答案是B，1公里。

34. You've never heard one?

你从来没听过吗？

35. Never heard one.

从未听说过有这样的东西。

36. OK, well we'll find out later in the programme whether you're right or wrong.

好的，那么在节目的后续环节中，我们就会知道你是对还是错了。

37. Now let's listen to what a gibbon really sounds like.

现在让我们来听听长臂猿到底发出什么样的声音吧。

38. Let's just hear this.

让我们先听听这个吧。

39. That's an absolutely wonderful, evocative sound, isn't it?

那真是一种美妙极了、能引发丰富联想的声音，不是吗？

40. Beautiful sound.

美妙的音质。

41. And what are they doing there, then?

那么，他们在那里到底在做什么呢？

42. That is, I said talking to each other.

也就是说，我是说大家要互相交流、互相交谈。

43. Well, this is, they're singing together.

嗯，他们正在一起唱歌。

44. So a male and a female, when they hold a territory together, will sing every morning, what they call a duet.

因此，当一只雄性和一只雌性共同守护一片领地时，它们每天早晨都会一起歌唱，人们将这种行为称为“二重唱”。

45. All the groups are surrounded.

所有这些群体都被包围了。

46. What we call a duet.

我们称之为二重奏。

47. Yes, absolutely.

是的，当然可以。

48. And they'll all sing together at the same time, and the whole forest will be alive with this sarcophony of song.

它们会同时一起歌唱，整个森林都会被这此起彼伏的歌声所充满。

49. So the gibbons make an evocative sound.

因此，长臂猿会发出这种富有感染力的声音。

50. If something is evocative, it brings strong feelings or memories to mind.

如果某事物具有唤起情感的作用，那么它就能引发人们强烈的情绪或回忆。

51. And something that is evocative is usually pleasant, Rob.

罗布，通常来说，那些能引发某种情感的东西都是令人愉悦的。

52. It is.

确实如此。

53. And what's also interesting is that the apes are singing in pairs – one male and one female.

有趣的是，这些类人猿是以一对一对的形式进行歌唱的——一只雄性和一只雌性。

54. They are singing duets together.

他们正在一起演唱二重唱。

55. So a duet is a song sung by two people, or in this case sung by two gibbons.

因此，二重唱是指由两个人共同演唱的歌曲，在这种情况下，就是由两只长臂猿共同演唱的歌曲。

56. And a lot of gibbons are singing duets at the same time, which Dr Clarke describes as a cacophony.

许多长臂猿同时进行二重演唱，克拉克博士将这种现象描述为“杂乱无章的声响”。

57. Cacophony means a mix of loud noises which often sound out of tune.

刺耳的声音指的是各种嘈杂音符的混合，这些声音往往听起来不协调。

58. And that could easily describe us singing together.

而这恰恰可以用来形容我们一起唱歌的场景。

59. Let's not do that.

我们还是不要那么做吧。

60. But what's the reason for the gibbon duet, Neil?

但是，尼尔，为什么长臂猿会进行这种二重唱呢？

61. Well the songs advertise the relationship between the male and the female and they also help to make clear which territory or bit of land belongs to a pair or group of gibbons.

这些歌曲展现了雄性和雌性之间的关系，同时也帮助明确了哪片领地或哪块土地属于某对或某群长臂猿。

62. Gibbons also use different sounds to alert or warn other gibbons about danger from predators – these are animals that eat other animals.

长臂猿也会利用不同的声音来提醒其他长臂猿注意捕食者的危险——这些捕食者就是以其他动物为食的动物。

63. The gibbons use a quiet hoo-hoo call to communicate that a leopard is nearby, and an even quieter hoo-hoo call for an eagle.

长臂猿会发出轻柔的“呼呼”声来警示附近有豹子，而当有鹰出现时，它们会发出更为轻弱的“呼呼”声。

64. You're very good at that Rob.

你在这方面做得非常出色，罗布。

65. Thank you.

谢谢。

66. Now let's hear more from Dr Clarke about this.

现在让我们再听听克拉克博士对此有何看法。

67. How does he describe language?

他是如何描述语言的？

68. Yes, so the idea is that if we find things like context-specific calling in non-human primates, 是的，我们的想法是，如果我们能在非人类灵长类动物身上发现类似与特定情境相关的行为模式，那么……

69. and suggests that way back in time, the ancestor that we shared with them also had context-specific calling.

并且表明，在远古时期，我们与它们共有的祖先也同样具有与特定环境相适应的生存本能。

70. So basically it just gives us some clues to the evolutionary roots of complex communication-like language.

所以，从本质上来说，这些发现只是为我们提供了关于类似复杂交流语言的进化起源的一些线索而已。

71. Dr Clark says that if we go far enough back in time, humans and other primates, such as monkeys and apes, have the same ancestor.

克拉克博士指出，如果我们追溯到足够久远的时间，人类与其他灵长类动物，比如猴子和类人猿，其实拥有相同的祖先。

72. Right, and ancestor means an animal or human from the past that a modern animal or human has descended from.

没错，祖先指的是那些生活在过去、现代动物或人类是由它们演化而来的动物或人类。

73. So if this common ancestor used context-specific calls, like modern gibbons, then it could have passed on this ability to humans a long time ago.

因此，如果这种共同祖先像现代长臂猿一样使用与特定情境相关的叫声，那么它很可能在很久以前就将这种能力传给了人类。

74. Context-specific calling means different calls for different situations.

针对不同情境的特定调用方式意味着，在不同情况下需要采用不同的调用方式。

75. For example, one call for leopard and another for eagle.

例如，一个请求是关于豹子的，而另一个请求则是关于鹰的。

76. And evolutionary means a gradual process of change or development.

而“进化”意味着一种渐进的变化或发展过程。

77. OK, well let's have the answer to the quiz question.

好的，那么让我们来揭晓这个测验问题的答案吧。

78. Earlier I asked how far can a gibbon's voice travel through the forest?

早些时候，我问过长臂猿的叫声能在森林中传播多远？

79. Is it a 500 metres, b 1 kilometre or c 5 kilometres?

是500米，还是1公里，又或者是5公里呢？

80. And I said b 1 kilometre.

我说了一公里。

81. And you were right.

你是对的。

82. A good guess.

猜得不错。

83. Or perhaps you do know a lot about gibbons.

或者，你其实对长臂猿了解得相当多。

84. So well done.

做得太好了。

85. Now can we hear today's words again, maybe in a gibbons voice, Neil?

现在，我们能不能再听一遍今天的那段话呢？或许可以用长臂猿的声音来念，尼尔？

86. Not sure about that.

不太确定。

87. I'll do it in a human voice.

我会用正常人的声音来表达它。

88. OK. Primates.

好的。灵长类动物。

89. A close shave.

真是千钧一发。

90. Screech.

尖叫声。

91. Face off.

正面交锋。

92. Gibbons.

长臂猿。

93. Evocative.

富有感染力。

94. Duet.

二重唱。

95. Cacophony.

刺耳的声音。

96. Territory Alert Predators Ancestor Evolutionary Thank you.

领土警报：捕食者、祖先、进化.....谢谢。

97. Well, that's the end of today's 6 Minute English.

好了，今天的“6分钟英语”就到这里结束了。

98. You can hear more 6 Minute English programmes on our website at bbclearningenglish.com.

您可以在我们的网站bbclearningenglish.com上收听更多“6分钟英语”节目。

99. Please join us again soon!

请尽快再次加入我们吧！

100. Goodbye!

再见！

101. Bye!

再见！

102. Hello, this is 6 Minute English from BBC Learning English.

Hello, this is “6 Minute English” from BBC Learning English.

103. I'm Neil.

我叫尼尔。

104. And I'm Beth.

我叫贝丝。

105. Maybe the only good thing about Covid lockdowns was the return of wildlife to our towns and cities.

也许新冠疫情导致的封锁措施唯一的好处，就是让野生动物重新回到了我们的城镇和城市里。

106. Birds, foxes and deer were seen in the streets close to people's homes.

在人们居住地附近的街道上，人们看到了鸟、狐狸和鹿。

107. Of course, rubbing shoulders with animals, spending time with them, is amazing.

当然，与动物们相处、陪伴它们，这种体验实在是太棒了。

108. But imagine a hungry African elephant stumbling into your garden and eating your prize vegetables.

但想象一下，一头饥饿的非洲大象偶然走进你的花园，把你精心培育的蔬菜吃个精光。

109. How would you stop it?

你该如何阻止它呢？

110. It sounds unlikely, but that's exactly the problem faced by farmers in Africa.

这听起来似乎不太可能，但恰恰这就是非洲农民所面临的问题。

111. Yes, as human populations increase, while natural habitats decline, people and animals are increasingly being forced to compete for space.

的确，随着人类人口的增长以及自然栖息地的减少，人类和动物越来越被迫为生存空间而竞争。

112. Wild animals can endanger humans when they break into their farms for food or water.

当野生动物为了觅食或饮水闯入人类的农场时，它们可能会对人类构成威胁。

113. And people might be forced to attack or even kill these animals to defend their homes.

人们可能不得不攻击甚至杀害这些动物，以保护自己的家园。

114. This situation, known as human-wildlife conflict, is becoming more frequent.

这种被称为人类与野生动物冲突的情况正变得越来越频繁。

115. But in this program, we'll be hearing about ingenious farmers in Kenya who are keeping their food safe from hungry wild animals.

但在这个节目中，我们将了解到肯尼亚一些富有智慧的农民是如何保护他们的食物，使其免受饥饿的野生动物的侵害的。

116. And as usual, we'll be learning some useful new vocabulary.

像往常一样，我们将学习一些有用的新词汇。

117. But first I have a question for you, Beth.

但首先，我有个问题要问你，贝丝。

118. Weighing around 6 tonnes, a fully grown African elephant needs to eat a lot every day.

一只成年非洲象的体重约为6吨，因此它每天需要摄入大量的食物。

119. But how much exactly?

但是具体是多少呢?

120. Is it a 50kg of food per day, b 100kg of food per day or c 150kg of food per day?

是每天需要50公斤的食物，还是100公斤的食物，又或者是150公斤的食物呢?

121. I'll guess an elephant eats 150kg of food a day.

我猜一头大象每天要吃150公斤的食物。

122. OK, Beth, we'll find out if that's the right answer at the end of the programme.

好的，贝丝，我们会在节目结束时弄清楚那是否就是正确答案。

123. Victor Ndombe is food security officer for the wildlife charity Save the Elephants.

维克托·恩多姆贝是野生动物保护组织“拯救大象”负责粮食安全事务的官员。

124. Victor works at Tsavo National Park in Kenya, where he's often faced with wild elephants breaking into farms for food and water.

维克托在肯尼亚的察沃国家公园工作，他在那里经常遇到野生大象闯入农场寻找食物和水源的情况。

125. Here's Victor explaining more to Michael Koloki, reporter for BBC World Service programme People Fixing the World.

以下是维克托向BBC世界服务节目《人们正在改变世界》的记者迈克尔·科洛基所做的进一步解释。

126. The conflict usually varies.

这种冲突通常会有所不同。

127. What we experience here is during the crop season, that is the rainy season, that's where we usually have the crop raids.

我们在这里经历的情况是，在农作物生长季节，也就是雨季，这个时候通常会发生农作物被盗抢的情况。

128. The elephants usually come here, lots of them, and they crop raid on the crops.

大象们通常会来到这里，数量很多，它们会破坏农作物。

129. Can I ask you, Victor, where do these elephants come from?

我可以问你吗，维克托，这些大象是从哪里来的?

130. So they come from those private lunches, national parks, and they come to this community.

所以它们源自那些私人午餐和国家公园，然后才来到这个社区。

131. They are looking for where there is green pasture.

他们在寻找有绿色牧场的地方。

132. So they come to this community where we have these nutritious foods, you know, elephants love maize, beans, and that is the crop that farmers usually farm.
所以它们会来到这个社区，在这里我们有这些营养丰富的食物。你知道，大象非常喜欢吃玉米和豆类，而这些正是农民们通常种植的作物。

133. So they come and eat those crops here and also looking for water.
所以它们会来到这里吃这些农作物，同时也会寻找水源。

134. Victor sounds very calm about this.
Victor seems very calm about this.

135. It's just a way of life for the people out here.
对这里的人们来说，这只是他们的一种生活方式而已。

136. But elephants do spell big trouble for farmers.
但是大象确实会给农民们带来很大的麻烦。

137. A fully grown male elephant can weigh the same as six cars on top of each other.

一只完全长大的雄性大象的体重，相当于六辆汽车叠在一起的总重量。

138. It's easy to see how they can destroy crops and livelihoods.
很容易理解，它们是如何破坏农作物和人们的生计的。

139. Victor works in a national park, a large area of land which is protected by the government because of its natural beauty, plants or animals.
维克托在一家国家公园工作。这类公园是由政府划定的大面积区域，因其自然美景、丰富的植物或动物资源而受到保护。

140. He explains that the elephants raid crops like maize and beans from farmers in the park.

他解释说，这些大象会袭击公园里农民种植的玉米、豆类等农作物。

141. To raid means to suddenly attack a place and steal from it.
突袭是指突然袭击某个地方并从中抢夺财物。

142. These crop raids have become more frequent because elephants are desperate to find water and because the park lacks money to fix broken fences which keep wild animals out.

由于大象迫切需要寻找水源，同时又因为公园缺乏资金来修复那些用于阻挡野生动物进入的破损围栏，因此这类针对农作物的破坏行为变得越来越频繁。

143. Victor says the raids have become a way of life, an activity that has become a regular thing in people's lives, rather than something that happens only occasionally.

维克托表示，这些突袭行动已经成了一种生活方式，一种在人们日常生活中频繁出现的行为，而不再是偶尔才会发生的事情。

144. That's no problem if it's a fox in your rubbish bin, but African elephants are as big as six cars on top of each other, and this spells trouble for the farmers.

如果垃圾箱里是一只狐狸，那倒没什么问题，但非洲象的体型大得相当于六辆汽车叠在一起，这样的动物对农民来说可就是大麻烦了。

145. If something spells trouble, it suggests that there may be problems in the future.

如果某件事预示着麻烦，那就说明未来可能会遇到问题。

146. Fortunately, there's an unusual solution that's got people buzzing – bees.

幸运的是，有一种不同寻常的解决方案正在引起人们的热议——那就是蜜蜂。

147. Ancient Kenyan folklore says that elephants are scared of bees.

根据肯尼亚的古老民间传说，大象是害怕蜜蜂的。

148. That's right – elephants, the world's biggest land mammal, are scared of an insect the size of your thumbnail.

没错，大象这种世界上最大的陆地哺乳动物，竟然会害怕一种大小只有你拇指指甲那么小的昆虫。

149. Victor's team install beehive fences to protect farmers' crops.

维克多的团队安装了蜂箱围栏，以保护农民的庄稼。

150. Real bees work best, but even a recording of bees angrily buzzing is enough to keep the elephants away.

真正的蜜蜂效果最好，但即便是蜜蜂愤怒鸣叫的声音录音，也足以把大象赶走。

151. Better yet, the bees also pollinate plants and even produce honey.

更妙的是，蜜蜂还能为植物授粉，甚至还能生产蜂蜜。

152. It's good news for the farmer, but I have to feel a little sorry for the elephants.

这对农民来说是个好消息，但对我来说，为大象们感到有些惋惜。

153. Yes, especially because they need to eat so much.

是的，尤其是因为它们需要摄入大量的食物。

154. I think it's time to reveal the answer to my question, Beth.

我觉得是时候揭晓我这个问题的答案了，贝丝。

155. You asked me how much food an elephant eats per day and I guessed it was 150 kilograms.

你问我大象每天吃多少食物，我猜大概是150公斤。

156. And that was the correct answer.

而那就是正确答案。

157. Well done.

干得好。

158. A fully grown African elephant needs 150 kilograms of food per day.

一只成年非洲象每天需要150公斤的食物。

159. OK, let's recap the rest of the vocabulary we've learned in this programme about human-wildlife conflict, a phrase describing harmful encounters between humans and wild animals.

好的，让我们回顾一下在这个节目中我们所学到的、与人类与野生动物之间的冲突相关的其他词汇。这个术语用来描述人类与野生动物之间那些有害的互动或遭遇。

160. If you rub shoulders with someone, you meet them and spend time together.

如果你与某人经常来往，那就意味着你会经常见到他们，并一起共度时光。

161. To raid means to suddenly attack a place and steal something.

突袭是指突然袭击某个地方并抢走某些东西。

162. A national park is a large area of a country which is protected by the government because of its natural beauty, plants or animals.

国家公园是指一个国家境内因自然美景、特有的植物或动物而受到政府保护的大片区域。

163. If you describe an activity as a way of life, you mean that it's become a common or regular event for someone, rather than something that happens only occasionally.

如果你将某种活动称为一种生活方式，那就意味着这种活动已经成为了某人的日常习惯或经常性行为，而不仅仅是一次性发生的事。

164. And finally, when something spells trouble, it suggests that there may be problems coming in the future.

最后，当某些迹象预示着麻烦即将出现时，这就意味着未来可能会遇到一些问题。

165. Once again, our six minutes are up.

再一次，我们的六分钟时间已经用完了。

166. Goodbye for now.

暂时再见了。

167. Bye.

再见。

168. Hello, I'm Rob.

Hello, I'm Rob.

169. Welcome to 6 Minute English.

欢迎来到“6分钟英语”节目。

170. With me today is Neil.

今天和我一起在场的是尼尔。

171. Hello, Neil.

你好，尼尔。

172. Hi there, Rob.

嗨，罗布。

173. In this programme, we're going to be talking about endangered species, particularly elephants in China.

在这个节目中，我们将讨论濒危物种，尤其是中国的大象。

174. So let's start with a question, Neil.

那么，让我们先从一个问题开始吧，尼尔。

175. Do you know how many elephants are still living in the wild in China?

你知道中国境内还有多少头大象生活在野外吗？

176. Is it a fewer than 15,000, b fewer than 1,000 or c fewer than 300?

是少于15,000，还是少于1,000，又或者是少于300呢？

177. I don't know, but I'm going to have a guess and say be fewer than a thousand.

我不知道，但我猜应该少于一千。

178. OK. Well, we'll let you know if you're right or wrong at the end of the programme.

好的。那么，在节目结束时，我们会告诉您您是对还是错。

179. So Rob, have you ever come across any animal species that are under threat in your travels?

那么罗布，在你的旅行过程中，有没有遇到过任何处于濒危状态的动物物种呢？

180. Yes, I have.

是的，我有。

181. I went to Australia a few years ago and I saw some turtles on the beach laying their eggs and they're very rare, aren't they?

我几年前去了澳大利亚，在海滩上看到一些海龟在产卵，这种景象非常罕见，不是吗？

182. Ah, they are very rare.

啊，它们非常稀有。

183. I've always wanted to see them but I haven't had the chance.

我一直都很想见到它们，但一直没有机会。

184. I was lucky enough to see a panda when I was in China once and they're threatened with extinction too, of course.

我有幸在中国时见过熊猫，当然，它们也同样面临着灭绝的威胁。

185. Yeah.

Yeah.

186. Well, the sad thing is, Neil, these animals are in danger largely because of the activities of human beings.

嗯，令人难过的是，尼尔，这些动物之所以处于危险之中，主要是因为人类的活动。

187. There's all sorts of reasons why this is happening.

发生这种情况的原因有很多种。

188. Yes, and it's actually very upsetting.

是的，这真的让人非常沮丧。

189. It could easily be prevented if people thought a bit harder about the impact their lives make on wild animals.

如果人们能更认真地思考自己的生活对野生动物的影响，这种情况是完全可以避免的。

190. Take those sea turtles you were talking about, for instance.

以你之前提到的那些海龟为例吧。

191. They're under threat for all sorts of reasons, overfishing being one of them.

它们由于种种原因而面临威胁，过度捕捞就是其中之一。

192. Then there are various species of rhinoceros which could disappear in a few years' time.

此外，还有多种犀牛物种可能在短短几年内就消失殆尽。

193. Again, people poach these creatures – poach means hunt illegally – because their horns are used for medicinal purposes.

同样，人们会非法捕猎这些动物，因为它们的角被用于药用目的。

194. And of course, in country areas, miles from civilisation, it's almost impossible to keep a check on illegal killings.

当然，在那些远离文明的乡村地区，要遏制非法杀戮行为几乎是不可能的。

195. It really makes you think, doesn't it, Rob?

这确实会让人深思，不是吗，罗布？

196. Well, actually, it's not that simple, Neil.

嗯，其实并没有那么简单，尼尔。

197. Human beings are also under pressure and often have strong arguments in favour of their actions.

人类也面临着压力，而且他们往往能为自己的行为提出强有力的理由来支持这些行为。

198. This Chinese farmer explains.

这位中国农民进行了解释。

199. He uses an expression that means arrived.

他使用了一个表示“已经到达”意思的表达方式。

200. Can you tell me what it is?

你能告诉我那是什么吗？

201. There are too many elephants around here.

这里大象太多了。

202. We used to grow sugar cane, but then the elephants started showing up and ate it all, so we gave up growing it.

我们以前种甘蔗，但后来大象出现了，把所有的甘蔗都吃光了，于是我们就不再种甘蔗了。

203. There was barely anything we could grow.

我们几乎没有什么东西能够种植。

204. No matter what we planted, there was nothing to harvest.

无论我们种了什么，最终都什么也收不到。

205. Now we grow rubber.

现在我们种植橡胶树。

206. It's the only thing they won't eat.

这是唯一他们不肯吃的东西。

207. He said showing up.

他说他会来。

208. This means the elephants arrived.

这意味着大象已经到来了。

209. And he said they gave up growing it.

他说他们已经放弃了种植它。

210. This means they stopped growing it.

这意味着他们停止种植它了。

211. The plight of the Asian elephant in China makes a pretty bleak picture, I must say.

不得不说，中国亚洲象的处境实在十分严峻。

212. I understand that they are victims of all sorts of abuse.

我了解到，他们是各种形式虐待的受害者。

213. Yes, experts say their numbers have declined by 50% in the last 75 years.

是的，专家表示，在过去的75年里，这些数字下降了50%。

214. Poaching is one reason why.

偷猎就是其中的一个原因。

215. They're hunted not for their tusks – that happens to the larger African elephant – but for their skins – to make leather goods and for their meat.

人们猎杀它们并不是为了获取它们的象牙——这种情况主要发生在体型较大的非洲象身上——而是为了获取它们的皮毛，用来制作皮革制品，以及为了吃它们的肉。

216. They are also losing their habitats – that's the places where they live – because of the growth in the number of plantations, particularly rubber but also other cash crops.

它们的栖息地也在逐渐消失——那些它们赖以生存的地方——因为种植园的数量正在不断增加，尤其是橡胶种植园，还有其他经济作物种植园。

217. These agricultural monocultures, as they are called, spell death for the elephant's lifestyle.

这些所谓的农业单一作物种植模式，实际上扼杀了大象原有的生存方式。

218. Logging, or deforestation, in which whole forests are destroyed, also adds to their problems.

砍伐森林，或者说森林破坏行为，会导致整片森林被毁，而这无疑会进一步加剧他们所面临的问题。

219. What's more, in some places their migratory routes have been cut off by human populations living in newly established villages.

此外，在某些地区，人类在新建立的村庄中居住，从而切断了这些动物的迁徙路线。

220. In a more general sense, just expanding human population is forcing them out of their natural environments.

从更广泛的角度来看，人类人口的增长本身就在迫使他们离开自己的自然栖息地。

221. There's another very unpleasant way in which these creatures are suffering, Rob.

罗布，这些生物还在另一种极其痛苦的方式中遭受折磨。

222. Many of the young elephants are taken away from the herd and turned into performing circus animals for tourists.

许多年轻的大象被从群体中分离出来，被训练成表演节目，为游客提供娱乐。

223. No, really Neil?

真的吗，尼尔？

224. Yes, I hear that sometimes nails are driven into their feet.

是的，我听说有时候人们会把钉子钉进他们的脚里。

225. They're deprived of sleep, food and water.

他们被剥夺了睡眠、食物和水源。

226. That's to make them easier to train.

这样就能使它们更易于训练。

227. OK, well that sounds so cruel.

好吧，那听起来太残忍了。

228. But there are people trying to improve the situation, Neil.

但是也有人正在努力改善这种状况，尼尔。

229. For example, there's a rehabilitation programme – that's a scheme to bring them back to a normal life – which rescues elephants at risk and gives them protection within a special sanctuary.

例如，有一个康复计划——这个项目旨在帮助它们恢复正常生活，它救助那些处于危险中的大象，并为它们在专门的庇护所中提供保护。

230. Then there are some people who are trying to get farmers to work in a different way.

还有一些人正在试图让农民以不同的方式从事农业生产。

231. Let's listen to a forestry policeman.

让我们来听一位林业警察的讲述吧。

232. He uses an expression to describe the way people farm the land.

他用一个表达方式来描述人们耕种土地的方式。

233. Can you tell me what it is?

你能告诉我那是什么吗？

234. It makes me sad.

这让我感到难过。

235. I want people to know that they shouldn't cut down the forest and that there are consequences if they do.

我希望人们能够明白，他们不应该砍伐森林，因为这样做会带来后果。

236. I want them to change their farming practices, to change how they make a living.

我希望他们能够改变自己的耕作方式，改变自己的谋生手段。

237. We could become a tourist destination.

我们有可能成为一个旅游目的地。

238. People could make money from that.

人们可以从那件事中赚钱。

239. He said farming practices – this means the way people farm the land.

他说，农业耕作方式——也就是人们从事农业活动的方式。

240. And he said make a living – this refers to people earning enough money in order to survive.

他说要谋生——这就是指人们需要赚到足够的钱来维持生存。

241. So let's hope the elephants still living in the wild in China can be saved.

因此，让我们期待中国野外生存的大象能够得到拯救吧。

242. So, would you like the answer to the quiz question now, Neil?

那么，尼尔，你现在想要知道这个测验问题的答案吗？

243. Yes, OK. You asked me how many elephants are still living in the wild in China.
是的，好的。你问我中国现在还有多少头大象生活在野外。

244. Was it fewer than 15,000, fewer than 1,000, or fewer than 300?
是少于15,000吗？还是少于1,000吗？又或者是少于300吗？

245. And I guessed 1,000.
我猜是1000。

246. Well, I'm afraid the answer is actually fewer than 300.
嗯，恐怕答案其实是少于300。

247. Oh no, that's a real cause for concern, isn't it?
哦不，那可真是个值得担忧的问题，不是吗？

248. It certainly is.
确实如此。

249. Well, we're almost out of time, so let's remind ourselves of some of the words we've said today, Neil.
好吧，我们的时间差不多快用完了，所以让我们回顾一下今天我们说过的一些话，尼尔。

250. Poach.
挖角。

251. Habitats Showing up Gave up Farming practices Make a living Rehabilitation programme Thanks Neil.
栖息地的恢复、放弃传统的耕作方式、寻找新的生存手段、以及康复计划——这一切都要感谢尼尔。

252. Well, that's it for today.
好了，今天的内容就到这里吧。

253. Until next time, goodbye!
下次见，再见！

254. Bye!
再见！

255. Hello, this is 6 Minute English from BBC Learning English.
Hello, this is "6 Minute English" from BBC Learning English.

256. I'm Neil.
我叫尼尔。

257. And I'm Georgie.
而我叫乔治。

258. It's said that your personality is reflected in your pet – an animal that you keep in your home as a companion and treat kindly.

据说，一个人的性格会体现在他们养的宠物身上——那种被当作伴侣养在家中并受到悉心照料的动物。

259. Dog people are supposed to be friendly, enthusiastic and loyal, whereas cat people are introverted, proud and sensitive.

喜欢狗的人通常被认为性格友善、热情洋溢且忠诚可靠，而喜欢猫的人则往往内向、高傲且敏感细腻。

260. Are you a dog person or a cat person, Neil?

尼尔，你是更喜欢狗还是更喜欢猫呢？

261. Oh, I'm definitely a dog person, Georgie.

哦，我绝对是个喜欢狗的人，乔治。

262. I want a pet that's friendly and loves me, not a lazy cat that sits around all day waiting for food.

我想要一只友好且喜欢我的宠物，而不是那种整天懒洋洋地坐着等食物的猫。

263. Whether you're a dog person, a cat person or have a goldfish, hamster or parrot for a pet, the British are well known as a nation of animal lovers.

无论你是喜欢狗的人、喜欢猫的人，还是养金鱼、仓鼠或鹦鹉当宠物，英国人都以热爱动物而闻名。

264. In the UK, 52% of owners describe their pet as their best friend.

在英国，52%的宠物主人表示他们的宠物是他们最好的朋友。

265. And in 2021, 18 million homes had at least one pet, meaning that for the first time, there were more households with a pet than without.

到2021年，有1800万户家庭至少养了一只宠物，这意味着，养宠物的家庭数量首次超过了不养宠物的家庭数量。

266. In this programme, we'll be hearing how our relationship with pets has changed over the centuries.

在这个节目中，我们将了解到几个世纪以来，我们与宠物的关系发生了怎样的变化。

267. And, as usual, we'll be learning some useful new vocabulary as well.

而且，像往常一样，我们也会学习一些有用的新词汇。

268. But first I have a question for you, Georgie.

但首先，我有个问题要问你，乔治。

269. Nowadays, thanks to the internet, modern pets are getting online.

如今，得益于互联网，现代宠物也纷纷走上了网络世界。

270. So what percent of dogs and cats in the UK do you think have their own social media profile?

那么你认为，在英国，有多少比例的狗和猫拥有自己的社交媒体账号呢？

271. Is it a 7% b 17% or c 70%?

是7%的b选项，还是17%的c选项，又或者是70%的c选项呢？

272. It sounds crazy, but I'll guess 17% of British pets have their own social media account.

这听起来有点疯狂，但我估计有17%的英国宠物拥有自己的社交媒体账号。

273. OK, Georgie, we'll find out the answer later in the programme.

好的，乔治，我们会在节目后面找到答案。

274. Cats using Instagram and dogs on TikTok may be a strange new development, but our relationship with pets has continually changed throughout history.

猫使用Instagram，而狗则活跃在TikTok上，这一现象或许属于一种新颖而奇怪的发展趋势，但事实上，我们与宠物的关系在历史上一一直在不断变化。

275. In the 1800s, people started using the word pet to describe the emotional connection they felt to a special animal, and gradually it became normal to keep pets indoors.

在19世纪，人们开始用“宠物”这个词来形容自己与某种特殊动物之间建立的情感联系，渐渐地，将宠物养在室内也变得司空见惯了。

276. Here, Jane Hamlet, professor of history and author of a new book, The Pet Revolution, explains to BBC Radio 4 programme Thinking Aloud how early British attitudes to pets were based on economics.

在这里，历史学教授、新书《宠物革命》的作者简·哈姆雷特向BBC Radio 4的节目《思考之声》解释了，早期英国人对宠物的态度其实是基于经济因素的。

277. First of all, on a very practical level, living standards are gradually increasing across that period and it becomes more possible to keep pets if you have more disposable income.

首先，从非常实际的角度来看，在那段时期，生活水平正在逐步提高，如果你的可支配收入更多，养宠物也就变得更为可行了。

278. But I think in British culture, in the 19th century in particular, home and family are increasingly celebrated and keeping a pet becomes a way of bringing animals into your home life and also really expressing what it means to be part of a family.

但我认为，在英国文化中，尤其是19世纪，家庭和亲情受到了越来越多的重视。养宠物便成为将动物融入家庭生活的一种方式，同时也真正体现了成为家庭一员这一概念的含义。

279. Animals become part of that.

动物也成为了其中的一部分。

280. Family pets became more popular as people's living standards increased.

随着人们生活水平的提高，家庭宠物变得越来越受欢迎。

281. Living standards, which are also known as the standard of living, refer to the level of material comfort people live in.

生活水平，也被称为生存标准，指的是人们所享有的物质生活条件的高低。

282. It's connected to their disposable income – the money left over to spend on things you want after paying tax and other living expenses.

这与他们的可支配收入有关——也就是在缴纳税款和其他生活开支后，剩下的可以用来购买自己想要的东西的钱。

283. In other words, as people got richer, they had more money to spend on luxury items, including pets.

换句话说，随着人们变得富裕，他们就有更多的钱用于购买奢侈品，包括宠物。

284. And by the Victorian era, this included new and exotic pets such as tigers, lions, monkeys and elephants, which were shipped back from around the British Empire.

到了维多利亚时代，这类宠物还包括老虎、狮子、猴子和大象等新型且异国风情的动物，它们都是从大英帝国的各地运回来的。

285. Even the famous Victorian writer Charles Dickens owned a pet raven.

就连著名的维多利亚时代作家查尔斯·狄更斯也养过一只宠物渡鸦。

286. It was also the Victorians who first described Britain as a nation of dog lovers, a phrase they used to reflect the idea they had of themselves, as Professor Jane Hamlet explained to BBC Radio 4 programme Thinking Allowed.

正是维多利亚时代的人们首次将英国描述为一个热爱狗的国家，他们使用这一表述来反映他们对自己国家的认知。正如简·哈姆莱特教授在BBC第四电台的《理性思考》节目中解释的那样。

287. In the Victorian era, dogs were very much the top pet and you can see that the values that were often associated with dogs, so loyalty, trustfulness, steadfastness, all of these qualities were also celebrated by the Victorians as key parts of the Victorian manly character.

在维多利亚时代，狗绝对是人们最喜爱的宠物。可以看出，那些常常与狗联系在一起的品质——如忠诚、可靠、坚贞不渝——也被维多利亚时代的人们视为构成男性男子气概的关键要素。

288. So dogs really fitted the bill.

所以狗确实符合这些要求。

289. The Victorians admired the qualities associated with dogs, qualities like self-confidence and loyalty, being strong and unchanging in support of your friends.

维多利亚时代的人们十分推崇与狗相关的那些品质，比如自信、忠诚，以及为朋友坚定不移、始终如一地提供支持。

290. While dogs were considered strong and manly, cats were feminine and weak.

而狗被认为具有力量和男子气概，猫则被视为柔弱且缺乏男子气概的动物。

291. So for the Victorians, dogs really fitted the bill, an idiom meaning they were suitable for a particular purpose.

因此，对维多利亚时代的人来说，狗确实非常符合这种要求——用一种俗语来说，就是它们非常适合特定的用途。

292. Britain's relationship with pets really has changed over the years.

这些年来，英国人与宠物的关系确实发生了很大的变化。

293. From the manly British bulldog to funny cat videos on YouTube, it's been quite a journey.

从英俊威武的英国斗牛犬，到YouTube上那些有趣的猫咪视频，这一路走来确实经历了不少变化。

294. Maybe it's time to reveal the answer to my question, Georgie.

也许现在是时候揭晓我这个问题的答案了，乔治。

295. Right.

对。

296. You asked me how many dogs and cats in the UK had their own social media profile, and I guessed it was 17%.

你问我，在英国，有多少狗和猫拥有自己的社交媒体账号，我估计这个比例是17%。

297. Which was the correct answer!

这才是正确答案！

298. What I still don't understand is how they get their paws on the keypad.

我仍然不明白他们是怎么把爪子放到键盘上的。

299. Anyway, let's recap the vocabulary we've learnt in this programme about the love the British have for their pets – animals you keep in your home as a companion and treat kindly.

无论如何，让我们回顾一下在这个节目中我们学到的那些词汇，这些词汇是用来描述英国人对自己宠物的喜爱之情——那些被养在家里作为伴侣、并且受到人们悉心照顾的动物。

300. A cat person is someone who likes or prefers cats, unlike a dog person who prefers dogs.

“爱猫人士”是指那些喜欢或更偏爱猫的人，而“爱狗人士”则是指那些更喜欢狗的人。

301. Living standards, or standard of living, refers to the level of material comfort in which people live.

生活水平是指人们所享有的物质生活条件的高低。

302. Your disposable income is the money left over to spend on things you want after paying taxes and your living expenses.

你的可支配收入是指在缴纳税款和支付生活开支后，剩余下来可以用来购买你想要的东西的钱。

303. Loyalty means having strong and unchanging support for your friends.
忠诚意味着对朋友给予坚定而始终如一的支持。

304. And finally, if something fits the bill, it's suitable to serve a particular purpose.
最后，如果某样东西符合要求，那么它就适合用于实现特定的目的。

305. Once again, our six minutes are up.
再一次，我们的六分钟时间已经用完了。

306. Join us again soon for more trending topics and useful vocabulary here at 6 Minute English.

欢迎再次加入我们，继续在“6分钟英语”节目中关注更多热门话题和实用词汇。

307. Goodbye for now.
暂时再见了。

308. Bye.
再见。

309. Welcome to 6 Minute English, the programme where we bring you an interesting topic and six useful words or phrases.

欢迎收听“6分钟英语”节目。在这个节目中，我们会为您介绍一个有趣的主题，以及六个实用的单词或短语。

310. I'm Neil.
我叫尼尔。

311. And I'm Dan.
我叫丹。

312. Today we're talking about one of the last mysteries of science.
今天，我们要探讨的是科学领域中最后未解之谜之一。

313. No, not if the universe will keep expanding forever, but this.
不，如果宇宙会永远持续膨胀的话，就不是这样了。但实际情况并非如此。

314. How do cats and dogs find their way home over long distances?
猫和狗是如何在长途跋涉后找到回家路的呢？

315. We hear incredible stories of lost pets travelling tens and even hundreds of miles home, but scientists struggle to explain how they do it.

我们听到过一些令人难以置信的故事：那些走失的宠物会跋涉数十甚至数百英里回到家中，但科学家们仍难以解释它们是如何做到这一点的。

316. We'll hear the view of one scientist today, but before that I have to ask an important question.

今天我们将听取一位科学家的观点，但在那之前，我有一个重要的问题需要先提出来。

317. Neil, are you a cat person or a dog person?

尼尔，你是更喜欢猫还是更喜欢狗呢？

318. That's easy.

那很容易。

319. I'm a cat person for sure.

我绝对是个喜欢猫的人。

320. Dogs are just... well, they're hard work, aren't they?

狗啊.....嗯，养它们确实挺费劲的，不是吗？

321. If you say you're a cat person, it means you prefer cats.

如果你说自己喜欢猫，那就意味着你更偏爱猫。

322. A coffee person prefers coffee.

喜欢咖啡的人更偏爱咖啡。

323. A something person likes or prefers that thing, often over another thing.

某个人更喜欢或更倾向于选择某样东西，往往胜过另一样东西。

324. Back to the topic.

回到主题上来。

325. I'm a cat person.

我是个喜欢猫的人。

326. But can you answer this, Dan?

但是你能回答这个问题吗，丹？

327. Recently, a cat called Omar made headlines for being possibly the world's longest cat.

最近，一只名叫奥马尔的猫因为可能拥有世界上最长的身长而成为了新闻焦点。

328. How long is Omar?

奥马尔有多高？

329. Is it a 120cm, b 80cm or c 180cm?

它是120厘米长，还是80厘米长，又或者是180厘米长呢？

330. I'm going to say c 180cm.

我的身高大概是180厘米。

331. Now from long cats to long distance cats, scientists were scratching their heads a couple of years ago when a lost cat called Holly travelled 200 miles to get home.

从“长毛猫”到“远距离回归的猫”，几年前，当一只名叫霍莉的迷路猫跋涉200英里才回到家时，科学家们确实感到十分困惑。

332. How did it do it?

它是如何做到这一点的?

333. We say scratch your head when you're confused about something.

当我们对某件事感到困惑时, 就会说“挠挠头”。

334. There are a few theories about how cats and dogs navigate, but we don't yet have the full answer.

关于猫和狗是如何进行导航的, 目前存在几种不同的理论, 但我们尚未得到完整的答案。

335. Well, both cats and dogs have an extremely powerful sense of smell, of course.

嗯, 猫和狗的嗅觉能力当然都非常强。

336. Smells are like signposts.

气味就如同路标。

337. They let you know where you are.

它们能让你清楚地知道自己所处的位置。

338. Visual landmarks also play a role, just as they do with humans.

视觉地标同样发挥着重要作用, 这一点在人类身上也是如此。

339. A landmark is something very easily recognised – a big building or mountain, for example.

地标是一种非常容易辨认的事物——比如一座大型建筑或一座山脉。

340. And what about this one?

那这个呢?

341. Magnets are pieces of metal which attract certain other kinds of metal, for example iron or steel.

磁铁是一种能够吸引某些其他种类的金属的金属制品, 例如铁或钢。

342. The earth itself has a magnetic force.

地球本身具有磁性。

343. Birds use it to help them navigate over thousands of miles.

鸟类利用它来帮助自己在数千英里的范围内导航。

344. It tells them where north is.

它告诉他们北方在哪里。

345. It's thought they have some iron in their beaks.

据认为, 它们的喙中含有一些铁质成分。

346. But some scientists think mammals also have this capability.

但一些科学家认为, 哺乳动物也具备这种能力。

347. So we have a few ideas – smell, landmarks, magnetic forces – but can we explain how one kitty travelled over 200 miles by itself back to its home?

所以我们想到了一些原因——气味、地标、磁力作用——但我们真的能解释为什么有一只小猫能够独自跋涉200多英里回到自己的家吗？

348. Let's hear from cat and dog expert Dr John Bradshaw.
让我们来听听猫狗专家约翰·布拉德肖博士的看法吧。

349. How do cats build up the maps in their heads?
猫是如何在脑海中构建这些“地图”的呢？

350. What they do when they are in a new territory
当他们身处新的环境时，他们会采取哪些行动？

351. is explore it in a very systematic way.
正在以非常系统的方式对其进行探索。

352. So they'll go out in ever-increasing circles.
因此，它们会以越来越大的圆周轨迹不断移动。

353. They'll literally construct a mental map in their heads.
他们会在自己的脑海中真正构建出一幅心理地图。

354. And so a cat that's lost its territory probably does the same thing.
因此，一只失去了领地的猫很可能也会做出同样的行为。

355. They'll rely on the idea that if they go out in ever-increasing circles or rectangles, then eventually they will either come across the territory or they'll come across a smell carried on the wind of the territory that they used to live in and then be able to get home.

他们会依靠这样一个想法：只要不断以越来越大的圆形或矩形轨迹进行搜寻，最终他们要么会找到那片领土，要么会闻到风中携带的、来自他们曾经居住过的那片领土的气味，从而顺利找到回家的路。

356. Cats have a systematic approach, which means they use a system which is, first they walk around their area in a small circle, then a bigger one, and then a bigger one, until they have a strong mental map of the place.

猫有一种系统化的行动方式，也就是说，它们会按照一定的顺序活动：首先在周围的小范围内走动，然后范围逐渐扩大，如此反复进行，直到对所在环境形成清晰的心理地图。

357. Yes, a mental map is a map in your head, stored in your memory.
是的，心理地图就是储存在你大脑中的、存在于你的记忆中的“地图”。

358. And the area cats explore, their home area, is called their territory.
而猫们活动的区域，也就是它们的生活范围，被称为它们的领地。

359. Cats are territorial, which means their territory is very important to them.
猫具有领地意识，这意味着它们的领地对它们来说非常重要。

360. Having a map is great, but what happens when a cat gets lost?
有地图固然很好，但要是猫走丢了该怎么办呢？

361. Dr Bradshaw says that again it moves around in bigger and bigger circles until it finds a clue, which is a landmark or a smell that tells it where it is.

布拉德肖博士指出，这种行为会不断在越来越大的范围内活动，直到它找到某种线索——比如某个地标或某种气味，这些线索能告诉它自己当前所处的位置。

362. Well, that's the theory, though Dr Bradshaw says we really still don't have enough data – that's enough information – about this.

嗯，理论上是这样的，不过布拉德肖博士表示，我们目前确实还缺乏足够的信息——也就是相关的信息还不够充分——来支持这一理论。

363. When there is a scientific breakthrough, we'll bring it to you in 6 Minute English, I hope.

每当出现重大的科学突破，我们都希望能通过“6分钟英语”节目向您及时报道。

364. For now, let's content ourselves with Omar, possibly the world's longest cat.

目前，我们就把奥马尔当作世界上最长寿的猫吧。

365. How long then, Dan?

那么，还要多久，丹？

366. I said 180 centimetres.

我说的是180厘米。

367. Omar measures 120 centimetres – that's over two-thirds of my height – and weighs a heavy 14 kilograms.

奥马尔的身高为120厘米，这相当于我身高的三分之二以上；他的体重更是达到了14公斤。

368. Well, one thing Neil, if Omar ever got lost, he'd be found in no time.

嗯，尼尔，有一点可以肯定，如果奥马尔真的迷路了，他肯定很快就会被找到的。

369. He's a landmark in himself.

他本身就是一个里程碑。

370. Which reminds me, let's run through today's words again.

这让我想起来，我们再复习一下今天学过的单词吧。

371. If you're a cat person, you prefer cats.

如果你是喜欢猫的人，那你肯定更偏爱猫。

372. If you're an evening person, you prefer evenings.

如果你属于晚型生物，那你更喜欢晚上。

373. I've always thought you were a kind person, Neil.

我一直认为你是个善良的人，尼尔。

374. Nice of you to say.

你能这么说真是太好了。

375. But we only use the phrase with nouns, not adjectives.

但我们只将这个短语与名词搭配使用，而不与形容词搭配。

376. Indeed.

的确如此。

377. We don't want listeners to be scratching their heads.

我们不希望听众感到困惑或不知所措。

378. No, we can't confuse them.

不，我们不能把它们搞混。

379. So let's explain the next one clearly.

那么，让我们接下来清楚地解释一下这个内容。

380. A landmark is something easily recognisable that lets you know where you are.

地标是一种容易被识别的物体，它能帮助你确定自己所处的位置。

381. The bridges in London are landmarks.

伦敦的桥梁都是著名的地标。

382. And can we say the parks are magnets in summer?

那么，我们能不能说这些公园在夏天简直就像磁铁一样，吸引着人们呢？

383. A magnet is a piece of metal that attracts iron and steel, but we can also use the word more widely to describe things that attract other things.

磁铁是一种能够吸引铁和钢的金属物体，但这个词也可以更广泛地用来指那些能够吸引其他物体的东西。

384. Two more words.

还有两个词。

385. Territory is a noun, the area of land that an animal considers to be its own.

“领地”是一个名词，指的是动物认为属于自己的那片土地。

386. Animals who feel this strongly are described as territorial.

那些有着这种强烈意识的动物，被称为具有领地意识的动物。

387. Humans can be too about land or subjects they feel they own or control.

人类有时会对认为自己认为拥有或能够控制的土地或事物表现出过强的占有欲。

388. And finally, systematic – the adjective from system.

最后是“系统性的”——这个形容词来源于“system”这个词。

389. We can talk about a systematic approach, a systematic solution, a systematic study.

我们可以探讨一种系统化的方法、一种系统化的解决方案，以及一项系统化的研究。

390. And we have systematically worked our way through all of today's words.

我们系统地逐一学习了今天所学的所有单词。

391. Very good.

非常好。

392. Which means it's time to mention our own online territory – our website and social media pages.

这意味着现在是时候提到我们自己的线上平台了——我们的网站以及社交媒体页面。

393. Check us out on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and YouTube.

请在Facebook、Twitter、Instagram和YouTube上关注我们。

394. And of course, bbclearningenglish.com.

当然，还有bbclearningenglish.com。

395. Bye-bye for now.

再见啦，暂时告别。

396. Goodbye.

再见。

397. Six Minute English from BBC Learning English.

BBC Learning English的“六分钟英语”节目。

闪电英语