

1. Hello, this is 6 Minute English from BBC Learning English.
Hello, this is "6 Minute English" from BBC Learning English.

2. I'm Phil.
我叫菲尔。

3. And I'm Pippa.
我叫皮帕。

4. Are you a big reader, Phil?
菲尔，你是个爱读书的人吗？

5. Sometimes yes, sometimes no.
有时是，有时不是。

6. Sometimes I go a while without reading anything.
有时候我会有一段时间完全不读任何东西。

7. What about you?
你呢？

8. Well, I really love to read.
嗯，我真的很喜欢读书。

9. I read on the train to work all the time.
我在上班路上的火车上一直在看书。

10. Well, that is a great way to get some reading in, I guess.
嗯，我想，这确实是进行阅读的好方法。

11. Yes, and reading, of course, is a life skill, an essential skill which is useful or important in everyone's life.
是的，阅读当然也是一项生活技能，一种对每个人来说都十分有用且重要的基本能力。

12. But reading can be a struggle for people with dyslexia, a learning difficulty making it hard for people to read, write or spell.
但对于患有阅读障碍的人来说，阅读可能会是一件十分困难的事情。阅读障碍是一种学习障碍，它会让人在阅读、写作或拼写方面遇到极大的困难。

13. It's thought that around 1 in 10 people in the UK are dyslexic.
据估计，英国约有十分之一的人患有阅读障碍。

14. And many dyslexic children struggle at school where the focus is on reading and writing.
许多患有阅读障碍的儿童在以阅读和写作为主要学习内容的学校里会遇到困难。

15. But in this episode, we'll be hearing how dyslexics have other skills which allow them to excel in the workplace.
但在这一集中，我们将了解到阅读障碍者具备哪些其他能力，这些能力使他们能够在工作中

表现出色。

16. As usual, we'll be learning some useful new words and phrases.

像往常一样，我们将学习一些有用的新单词和短语。

17. And remember, you'll find all the vocabulary for this episode on our website, bbclearningenglish.com.

请记住，这一集的所有词汇都可以在我们的网站bbclearningenglish.com上找到。

18. But first, I have a question for you, Phil.

但首先，菲尔，我有个问题要问你。

19. Studies have shown that people with dyslexia have enhanced abilities in certain areas and can excel in creative thinking, problem solving and inventiveness.

研究表明，患有阅读障碍的人在某些领域具备较强的能力，他们在创造性思维、问题解决以及创新能力方面往往能够表现出色。

20. So, which famous scientist was dyslexic?

那么，哪位著名的科学家患有阅读障碍呢？

21. Was it A Stephen Hawking, B Albert Einstein or C Marie Curie?

是A. 史蒂芬·霍金，B. 阿尔伯特·爱因斯坦，还是C. 玛丽·居里？

22. Oh, I think it's B. I think it's Albert Einstein.

哦，我想是B。我认为那是阿尔伯特·爱因斯坦。

23. Well, we'll find out the answer at the end of the programme.

嗯，我们会在节目结束时找到答案。

24. Now, the British charity Made by Dyslexia shares online learning tools and works with schools and teachers to raise awareness about the condition.

如今，英国慈善机构“由阅读障碍者创建”致力于分享在线学习资源，并与学校及教师合作，提升人们对这一问题的认知度。

25. The charity recently collaborated with British celebrities who have dyslexia for this promotional video.

这家慈善机构最近与一些患有阅读障碍的英国名人合作，共同制作了这段宣传视频。

26. If you're dyslexic, it's kind of your superpower.

如果你有阅读障碍，这其实可以算是一种“超能力”。

27. It's like the way that you think.

就像你的思维方式一样。

28. Our brains, they're wired to, I think, process information differently.

我认为，我们的大脑在处理信息的方式上存在差异。

29. The way I see the world might be different from somebody else, but that's valid.

我看待世界的方式可能与他人不同，但这种看法同样是合理的。

30. In fact, it's vital.

事实上，这至关重要。

31. You might recognise some of those voices, including actors Orlando Bloom and Keira Knightley and businessman Richard Branson.

你可能会认出其中一些声音，其中包括演员奥兰多·布鲁姆、基拉·奈特莉，以及商人理查德·布兰森。

32. The message is that far from being a disability, dyslexia is their superpower, the ability to do something other people can't.

这个信息意味着，阅读障碍远非一种缺陷，而是一种超能力——一种让这些人能够做其他人无法做到的事情的能力。

33. Made by Dyslexia was founded by social entrepreneur Kate Griggs and Kate co-authored a report showing that empowering dyslexic workers could boost the global economy by billions.

“Made by Dyslexia”这一组织是由社会企业家凯特·格里格斯创立的。凯特与他人共同撰写了一份报告，指出帮助有阅读障碍的劳动者发挥他们的能力，能够为全球经济带来数十亿美元的收益。

34. BBC World Service programme People Fixing the World met Kate at the report's London launch event, where she explained why being dyslexic can actually give advantages in life, including some exciting job prospects.

在BBC世界服务频道节目《人们正在改变世界》的伦敦发布会上，人们遇到了凯特。在发布会上，她解释了为什么患有阅读障碍实际上会在生活中带来某些优势，其中包括一些令人振奋的职业发展机会。

35. If you think about what you have to do as a spy, you have to be reading people really quickly, spotting complex patterns and solving problems really quickly so you can see whether there's a terror threat.

如果你仔细想想作为一名间谍所需做的事情，你就会发现：你必须能够迅速洞察他人的意图，识别出那些复杂的模式，并迅速解决问题，这样才能判断是否存在恐怖威胁。

36. It's natural that dyslexics are brilliant spies.

患有阅读障碍的人成为出色的间谍，这其实是很自然的事。

37. Kate thinks dyslexics make good spies – people who secretly collect information about another country's government or organisations.

凯特认为，有阅读障碍的人很适合从事间谍工作——也就是那些能够秘密收集有关其他国家政府或组织信息的人。

38. Why?

为什么？

39. Because they're good at reading people.

因为他们很擅长读懂别人的心思。

40. To read people means to be able to understand someone's true intentions through their body language and behaviour rather than their words.

读懂他人意味着能够通过他们的肢体语言和行为来理解他们的真实意图，而非仅仅依靠他们所说的话。

41. Also present at the London charity event was space scientist and dyslexic herself, Dr Maggie Adairin-Pocock.

同样出席这场伦敦慈善活动的还有太空科学家玛吉·阿代林-波科克博士，她本身也患有阅读障碍。

42. Here, Maggie tells BBC World Service's People Fixing the World how being dyslexic contributes different skills and ideas to her project teams.

在这里，玛吉向BBC世界服务台的“人们改变世界”节目讲述了自己患有阅读障碍这一事实是如何为自己的项目团队带来不同的技能和想法的。

43. Well, I think it's recognising people's skills and differences.

嗯，我认为这是对人们的能力和差异的认可。

44. It's about teamwork and collaboration.

这关乎团队合作与协作。

45. We do it in science and that's when we reach for the stars.

我们在科学领域就是这么做的，正是在这种过程中，我们才不断向着星辰进军。

46. But to do that, we need to know our skills and value all the skills.

但要做到这一点，我们必须了解自己的能力和珍视所有这些能力。

47. Maggie thinks that everyone's skills should be valued or considered important.

玛吉认为，每个人的技能都应受到重视或被视为重要。

48. Dyslexics may struggle to read or spell, but their skills in problem solving and communication, for example, can be essential for scientific success.

阅读障碍者在阅读或拼写方面可能会遇到困难，但他们在解决问题和沟通方面的能力却可能对取得科学领域的成功至关重要。

49. By valuing everyone's contribution, business and science teams can reach for the stars – an idiom meaning to be ambitious and try to achieve something difficult even if it seems impossible.

通过重视每个人所做出的贡献，商业团队和科研团队就能够勇往直前——这一表达意味着要树立远大目标，努力去做那些看似不可能完成的任务。

50. And talking of reaching for the stars, Pippa, I think it's time you revealed the answer to your question about successful scientists.

说到追求梦想，皮帕，我觉得是时候告诉你关于那些成功的科学家的问题的答案了。

51. Yes, I asked you which famous scientist was dyslexic.

是的，我问过你哪位著名科学家患有阅读障碍。

52. Was it A. Stephen Hawking, B. Albert Einstein or C. Marie Curie?

是A. 史蒂芬·霍金, B. 阿尔伯特·爱因斯坦, 还是C. 玛丽·居里?

53. And you were right, Phil, it was Albert Einstein.

你说得对, 菲尔, 确实是阿尔伯特·爱因斯坦。

54. OK, let's recap the vocabulary we've learned, starting with life skill, an essential skill such as reading or problem solving, which is useful in everyone's life.

好的, 让我们回顾一下我们所学过的词汇。首先是从“生活技能”开始谈起——这类技能, 比如阅读能力或解决问题的能力, 都是非常重要的, 对每个人的生活都大有帮助。

55. A superpower is the ability to do something that other people can't.

超级力量是指拥有他人无法做到的能力。

56. A spy is someone who secretly collects information about other countries' governments or organisations.

间谍是指那些秘密收集有关其他国家政府或组织信息的人。

57. If you're good at reading people, you can understand people's real intentions through how they act and behave instead of what they say.

如果你擅长读懂他人的心思, 那么你就能通过他们的行为举止来理解他们的真实意图, 而不仅仅依靠他们所说的话。

58. If you value something or someone, you consider them to be important.

如果你珍视某物或某人, 你就认为他们很重要。

59. And finally, the idiom to reach for the stars means to have high or ambitious aims and try to achieve something difficult, even if it seems impossible.

最后, “追逐星辰”这一习语意味着拥有远大或雄心勃勃的目标, 并努力去实现那些看似不可能完成的事情。

60. Once again, our six minutes are up, but remember you can find many more trending topics, plus a quiz and worksheet for this episode on our website, bbclearningenglish.com.

再次提醒, 我们的六分钟时间已经结束了。不过请记住, 您可以在我们的网站 bbclearningenglish.com 上找到更多热门话题, 此外还有针对这一期的测验和练习题。

61. Hope to see you there soon, but for now, it's goodbye.

希望不久后能在那里见到你, 但现在, 先告辞了。

62. Goodbye.

再见。

63. Six Minute English from BBC Learning English dot com.

BBC Learning English推出的“六分钟英语”栏目。